TAFT'S DRAFT PLAN GOES TO SENATE TODAY

Seeks Bi-Partisan Backing
For Bill To Call Fathers
Under 30 Years First.

WHEELER BILL DOOMED

Ohioan Hopes To Win Backing
For Measure For Effect on Manpower Hoarding.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON — Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., today sought bi-partisan support for his proposal to require the drafting of fathers under 30 years of age first.

Taft hoped to offer his proposal in the senate this afternoon as a substitute for the bill of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., to defer induction of all pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until Jan. 1.

Unless there is such a compromise, Wheeler's bill is destined to defeat, either through a vote on the issue or by recommendation to a senate committee pigeon-hole.

A tentative draft of the substitute which Taft proposed has three major provisions. It would:

1. Forbid induction of pre-war fathers until the entire national pool of single and childless married men was drained.

2. Require the calling of fathers under 30 before any above that age were taken.

3. Forbid occupational deferments for any man under 30 unless he was engaged in essential work having to do with actual production of airplanes, shipping, munitions, mining or some similar task under direct government contract.

Taft said he already had the support of two other Republicans — Sens. Chapman B. Revercomb of West Virginia and Edward W. Robertson of Wyoming. He hoped to enlist the support of Sen. Bennett C. Clark, D., Mo.

Clark already is co-sponsor with Sen. Josiah W. Bailey, D., N. C., of a Wheeler bill substitute which would ban employment in government agencies of any unmarried or childless married man 18-38 who is physically acceptable to the armed services unless the agency head certifies such an employee as indispensable.

Before joining Bailey, Clark had leaned toward Taft's original proposition to divide pre-war

Arrive Today to Complete Plans For Vox Pop Show

Representatives of the Vox Pop radio show which will be broadcast from Senior high school auditorium Monday night, arrived in the city today to complete plans for the net-work program.

The help of County Agent George Ganyard will be sought in obtaining several typical Richland county farmers to participate in the broadcast. Farmers chosen during personal interviews this week will be questioned Monday night about their food production problems and handicaps this year.

Arrangements were being made today to run a special telephone line into the high school building to handle the broadcast which is scheduled from 7 to 7:30 p. m. Monday.

It was expected that a plan for distributing the 1,200 free tickets for the broadcast show would be worked out today by the Chamber of Commerce and Vox Pop radio representative.

Mansfield Boy Undergoes Operation After N-J Appeal Brings Him Rare Type Blood to Help Stave Off Death

By MARY DAVIDSON

Fourteen-year-old Frank Militello was wheeled into the operating room at General hospital at 11:15 a. m. today fortified for the ordeal which lay ahead of him by a transfusion of blood—the rare Type AB—generously supplied by a Mansfielder who heard his plea through yesterday's News-Journal.

For a week the boy has been seriously ill with an internal ailment which can be cleared up only by an operation. And for the same length of time the youngster has been too ill, too weak to undergo an operation.

More blood of the rare type he has needed to give him the resistance to undergo such an operation. The difficulty lay in the fact that Type AB blood is the rarest of all types. It is found only in 7 to 10 per cent of the entire world population.

His brother, William, gave the boy a transfusion on Saturday but that was not enough. The problem then was where to get the blood. The hospital supply was exhausted and they knew of no other persons with the rare AB type blood.

Desperately in need of the blood to save the boy's life, Mr. and Mrs. William Militello, 112 Chester avenue, the sick lad's parents, yesterday made a public appeal and Mansfield did not turn a deaf ear.

Less than two hours after the News-Journal was off the press carrying the story of the boy yesterday, persons with Type AB began to call the hospital. "My blood is Type AB. May I give him some blood? I am anxious to help if I can," they said.

They were the first of more than a hundred persons who contacted hospital attaches

CITY TAKES UP JOB OF FINDING AIRPORT FUNDS

Faces Job of Raising $161,000
To Buy Land and Re-locate Utility Lines.

The task of finding approximately $161,000 to buy land for the Mansfield airport expansion project and finance re-locating utility lines faced city council today, and there were indications that the job won't be an easy one.

Mayor W. J. Locke said he would turn the airport land appraisal figures totaling $116,835 over to council's finance committee today and would submit the utility line removal cost estimates to the committee as soon as they are available from the Chamber of Commerce.

The total bill is expected to be ready for action by council at its meeting Tuesday night.

Estimating that the city probably couldn't raise more than $125,000 now for the airport, Mayor Locke said he didn't know where the rest of the money was coming from.

"It may be possible to draw from our general fund and issue bonds within the 10-mill limitation to the extent of $125,000, but it might endanger our city operations to borrow to the limit and draw too heavily on our operating fund," the mayor said.

City Auditor Paul Kelley, who last July estimated that $89,000 would be available from the general fund for the airport, said today that city expenditures since then have reduced the amount that can be used for buying airport land. He said he was unable, however, to say just how much can be taken now from the general fund.

Added to the $116,835 estimated land cost will be the $44,311 sought by three utility firms for moving their lines out of the airport area. City officials hope to get the telephone and power lines moved for less than that amount and

Called Suicide

Noted Ohio Astronomer Found
Hanged From Telescope.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A verdict of suicide was returned today in the death of Dr. Elliott Smith, 68, who was found hanged from the base of a large telescope at the University of Cincinnati where he became one of the country's foremost astronomers.

Coroner Frank M. Coppock issued the verdict. Associates of the professor said he had been in ill health lately and recently was a patient in a Cincinnati hospital.

The body, hanging on a rope suspended from an arm of the huge telescope, was found by Dr. Everett Yovell, whom Smith had succeeded as director of the observatory three years ago.

Knox Ex-Judge Resigns Industrial Commission Position.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — L. Jay Duke, former Knox county probate judge, resigned today as deputy commissioner for the Ohio industrial commission.

He joined the commission in 1919 after serving as probate judge for eight years. Originally a referee, he was named deputy commissioner in 1935. Duke said he planned to retire and live at Mount Vernon, his former home.

Shofar Sounds Victory Note as Rosh Hashanah Comes In.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The hopes for peace have changed Jewish religious ceremonies. Instead of blowing one long blast on the shofar to usher in Rosh Hashanah last night, Wolf Kurtzman, 107-year-old inmate of the Brooklyn home and hospital for the aged, sounded three short blasts and one long one—"V" for victory.

How Allies Advance on Naples Front

This map shows how the Allies are advancing on the Naples front. The American Fifth army, under Gen. Mark Clark, has passed Mt. Vesuvius and Pompeii, between Salerno and Naples, and is reported now investing the city. Meanwhile, a spearhead of the British Eighth army, under Gen. Bernard Montgomery, is moving on the city after capturing the Foggia air base, while two other prior moves on other objectives.

BOND SALE UP TO $6,864,104

County Heads Toward Passing
Goal By $1,000,000; New Appeal Made.

With indications that Richland county's war bond campaign will exceed its goal by well more than $1,000,000, drive figures today showed that the county's $6,060,000 quota has been over-subscribed by $804,104 to date.

Yesterday's bond purchases totaled $390,120. Chairman Henry G. Brunner reported. This brought the total raised so far to $6,864,104.

Meanwhile the appeal for the "little fellow" to buy bonds was reiterated today in a statement from Frank E. Tripp, chairman of the Allied Newspaper council.

"This drive," he said, "is an absolute failure for one who has not bought extra bonds. The Third War loan is as personal to us as a Nazi or a Japanese."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) Secretary of Interior Ickes declared today that the failure of the coal operators and the union to reach a wage agreement is causing a serious coal shortage crisis. "The coal situation will continue to get worse every week from now on until there is a contract between the coal operators and the miners," he said at a news conference.

MAPS CURFEW

Solicitor To Present Bill To Council Tuesday.

City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner said today he was drawing up a proposed curfew ordinance to submit to city council Tuesday night.

Wagner said council had not asked for the legislation and he didn't know whether members would be interested in voting on it Tuesday. He added, however, that he has heard considerable sentiment for a curfew and thought it was "a good idea."

He said the curfew proposal probably would affect boys and girls under 17, but had not decided on the hour or penalty to go into the ordinance.

Council was asked several weeks ago by Mayor W. J. Locke to study the advisability of a curfew ordinance, but nothing apparently has been done by members to map legislation for members.

NEED 1,500 FOR AIR DEPOT JOBS

400 Required By Monday With Others Urgently Needed In 6 Months, Handley Says.

An appeal for 400 workers by next Monday and at least 1,500 during the next six months at the Parcel Air Supply depot near Shelby was issued today by the big government agency's personnel division.

The depot will attempt to find workers to meet the urgent labor demand through the Mansfield office of the U. S. Employment service, sending its personnel officer, Lieut. H. C. Von Loewenfeld, here Friday to interview applicants.

C. W. Handley, manager of the employment office, said Lieut. Von Loewenfeld will be at employment headquarters on North Diamond street from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. to meet applicants.

There is an urgent need now for storekeepers, clerk-typists, women guards, carpenters, carpenter's helpers, and common laborers, Handley said.

The huge government project, said to be the largest of its kind in the world, will be completed by the last of October and when it goes into full operation will employ between 2,500 and 3,000 workers, Handley said.

STIMSON LEAVES SAME FOG OVER GEN. MARSHALL

Says Any Change Will Be In Interest of Victory, Hits
Political Implications.

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON — The future status of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, was left unsettled today by Secretary of War Stimson.

Stimson was questioned at his news conference on whether Marshall would soon be made commander-in-chief of Anglo-American forces.

In response to the question he read a prepared statement which follows:

"I can make a statement about some of the reports. I am in a position to say with absolute confidence that whatever duties Gen. Marshall may be called upon to perform will be decided by President Roosevelt in a spirit of entire confidence in Gen. Marshall and with the sole purpose of placing this extremely able officer of the United States army in a position where he can render the best service toward successful conclusion of this war.

"Furthermore, the attitude of President Roosevelt toward Gen. Marshall is entirely consistent, and in keeping with his attitude in other respects toward all of his military advisors in the army.

"I am in a position to know and say, and I do say, that any suggestion that President Roosevelt sought to influence the appointment or assignment of officers in the army with any political, personal or other motive, other than that with a thought of winning the war, is completely untrue.

"It is more than that. It is a piece of folly aimed at discrediting the American conduct of the war during a most critical period of its course."

GET LONG TERMS

O. S. R. Fugitives Sentenced
To Terms Totalling 80 Years.

Two Mansfield reformatory inmates who escaped Aug. 24 in a fireproof funeral home car and were captured a week later in Chillicothe received prison sentences totaling 80 years each today at Newark on burglary and auto theft charges.

The pair, Russell Allen, 24, and Samuel Shriver, 22, both of Newark, fled with two other inmates, taking a car from the funeral home garage and at least two other automobiles before they were captured in Chillicothe.

The stolen car was recovered last week by state highway patrolmen from Mt. Vernon who found it in a wood lot off State Route 3 between Loudonville and Mt. Vernon.

Nazis Retreat Into City, Then On Northward

Americans and British Roll Past Mt.
Vesuvius and Pompeii But Suffer
Heavy Losses In Advance on Germans In Key Port.

LONDON — (AP) — The Cairo radio said today in a broadcast recorded by Reuters that the American Fifth army is rapidly investing the city of Naples from the south and southeast.

LONDON — (AP) — The German-controlled Fascist radio announced in mid-afternoon today that "at this moment the British fleet is bombarding Naples." There was no confirmation of the report from any Allied quarter.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA — The American Fifth army rolled across the coastal plain at the foot of Vesuvius today toward the towers of smoke and flame that marked the city of Naples, Italy's second greatest port.

Overrunning Pompeii, the modern town of 4,000 people built on the ashes of its ancient namesake that was destroyed in 78 A. D., troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark drove to the southern slopes of 3,900-foot Vesuvius and began the last stages of their approach round the base of the volcano.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique announced the capture of both Pompeii, 10 miles along the coast from Naples, and Mercato San Severino, 22 miles southeast of the big port which has been shaken and swept for a week by the explosions and fires set by German demolition crews, and ridden by vengeful machine-gun squads reported to have excited a reign of terror among the people.

But it was probable that the troops were much closer than disclosed by the communique which usually contains no information of operations later than 6 p. m. of the preceding day.

(The Cairo radio said the Fifth army was rapidly investing the city from the south and southeast.)

(The German communique, broadcast from Berlin, said that harbor installations had been destroyed in an effort to prevent Allied landings, and that "very severe measures were taken against Communist riots which are flaring up.")

While Clark's army continued its unbroken advance, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army along the Adriatic continued to consolidate the newly won air bases at Foggia, only 160 miles from Rome, and branched out to reach Manfredonia on the coast in a 20-mile advance from Apponeto.

The weather turned from rain and wind to warm and other tanks of the Fifth army rumbled past Pompeii to the outskirts of Torre

Annunziata, beating down rear-guard opposition and pressing on despite extensive minefields and demolitions which had ruined roads and bridges.

The bulk of the German defenders apparently had fled into Naples and then on to the north, according to an air force announcement which told of bombarding Nazi truck columns to the northeast of the city.

The fierce rush of Gen. Clark's troops through the mountain ring had cost dearly, however.

A military spokesman announced that British divisions of the Fifth army suffered 5,211 casualties from Sept. 9, the beginning of the battle of Salerno, to Sept. 20. This was a high proportion of casualties considering the number of troops involved.

The war department announced last Saturday that American

DOUBLE: Reds Strike Hard Blows at Nazis In Two Sectors

MOSCOW — Red army troops stormed the approaches to Gomel, key White Russian railroad junction, today as their comrades to the south struck out from the east bank of the Dnieper and seized an island midstream under almost point-blank fire from Kiev.

(Adolf Hitler was reported by the Swedish press to have made a dramatic trip to the Russian front, summoned his generals, and announced bluntly to them that the Dnieper river line "must be held" as the "natural frontier between the two armies.")

Gomel already was invested from the south and east and the capture of Zetka, only nine miles to the northeast on the opposite bank of the Sozh river, raised a direct flanking threat.

The army organ Red Star reported that the Germans were rushing reinforcements from other sectors in a frantic effort to check the Russians, who swept up more than 170 towns and villages in their advance yesterday.

In their first announced thrust beyond the east bank of the Dnieper, the Russians yesterday seized Trukhanov island opposite Kiev following the smashing of the last enemy resistance to the east with the capture of Darnitsa. The Dnieper at this point is only 1,050 feet wide, but the bluffs on which Kiev is built rise 600 feet.

The battle for crossings of the Dnieper entered the decisive stage with the seizure of Trukhanov island and Kremenchuk, 160 miles downstream and the largest city on the east bank. Red Star quoted German prisoners that Adolf Hitler had ordered Kremenchuk

STRIKE. Allied Bombers Get Gigantic Jap Ammunition Dump

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC — A huge store of ammunition which the Japanese painstakingly had transported overseas for use against General MacArthur's advancing New Guinea troops was exploded Tuesday at Wewak by Liberator bombers in the greatest pyrotechnic display ever seen in the Southwest Pacific.

This new blow, following by a day the destruction of more than 60 enemy planes and seven ships at Wewak, was reported today in a communique which also announced that hard fighting Australians have inched through bitter Japanese resistance to within 600 yards of the main jetty at Finschhafen.

The raiders shot down eight interceptors, added 145 tons of bombs to the 106 tons dropped Monday and departed intact. A large fuel dump and several supply dumps also were destroyed. Nearer the ground fighting at Finschhafen, Liberators caused landslide obstructions with 1,000-pound bombs on the coastal road south of Madang. The Finschhafen garrison was (Continued on Page 7, Col. 1)

NEW LITERARY GUILD BOOK ON LIBRARY LIST

O River, Remember' Story of Red River Valley, To Be Released Next Week.

Among this week's additions to the Mansfield public library is the new Literary Guild book for October, O RIVER, REMEMBER, by Martha Ostenso. It is a story of the Red River Valley in Minnesota and tells how the valley became a great highway into Canada.

Through it all runs the human story of Brill Wing and Norma Stalder, two modern young people who found the courage to hold fast to their love in the face of adversity and a family feud. This novel with other fiction and non-fiction will be put on the library shelves Saturday and will go into circulation Monday.

TIDEWATER by Clifford Dowdell, author of "Eugene Blow At Dawn," is a lively, hot-blooded historical novel that is pure escapade reading. By the year 1837, Virginia had passed the zenith of her glory and the pivot of power was moving westward. Caffey made it of that colorful group who left old family plantations on the coast to plunge into the wilderness of western Tennessee, to win cotton lands, and so sink new roots into the raw young cities on the Mississippi river. There are fights and riots, romance, killings and schemings—and, finally, a new era dawning.

Harlow Estes, author of the prize-winning "Hildreth," has written a new novel dealing with problems of living during war-time. It is the story of two young people who, after Pearl Harbor, decided to save what happiness might be left to them. THE INCONQUANT FLAME gives the author all opportunity for the probing human nature under stress.

OTHER FICTION: THE WINDMILL CIRCLE, Rice; TRAVELER'S END, Randall; SHADOWS OF THE WALL, Reiser.

BATTLE HYMN OF CHINA, Agnes Smedley is the story of a woman who for twelve long years fought fearlessly and tirelessly for the people of war-torn China. Correspondent extraordinary, American revolutionary, confidante to China's generals, and nurse to her marching men, the author has in these pages drawn unforgettable word pictures of the patriotic city of Peiping; of terror-ridden pre-war Shanghai; of Sian, the scene of the Chiang kidnapping negotiations; of death and destruction in the blasted city of Hankow. Miss Smedley's book should be read by everyone desiring a full and well-rounded picture of modern China.

WE WERE FREE by Constantin Joffe is a straightforward account of the author's experiences—first in the Legion of Refugees, made up of Hungarians, Spaniards, Russians, Germans, and Jews, all of whom were either killed in the Nazi conquest of France or sent to concentration camps—and second in a concentration camp in Austria. The account of their incredible sufferings is set forth in simple, moving terms.

THE TOUGHEST FIGHTING IN THE WORLD by George E. Johnston is a picture of incredible courage and endurance, unrelenting jungle warfare, heroism in the clouds, great feats of air transport, and battle toughening of raw American troops. The author, a 30-year-old Australian war correspondent in the southwest Pacific battle zone, covered every battle front from Darwin to Buna.

PASSPORT TO TREASON by Alan Hynd is an inside story of spies in America, the scene of which ranges from Maine to Mexico and from Oregon to Florida—and the principal antagonists are the F. B. I. and the secret agents of Nazi Germany. It is an authentic record of what happened before Pearl Harbor, of what spies and saboteurs are doing today, and of what we may expect them to do tomorrow.

OTHER NON-FICTION: ORIGINS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION—Miller; THE BED-ROCK OF EATING AND DRINKING—Wright; THE SCREW-TAPE LETTERS—Lewis; PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN THE LIFE OF THE NATION—Rossell; THIS AGE OF CONFLICT—Chambers; CAVALCADE OF THE ENGLISH NOVEL—Wagenknecht; CELESTIAL HOMESPUN—Burton; HARRIET—Ryerson & Clements; BEDSIDE MONEY—Oakes; OUR ETERNAL CONTEMPORARY—Horton.

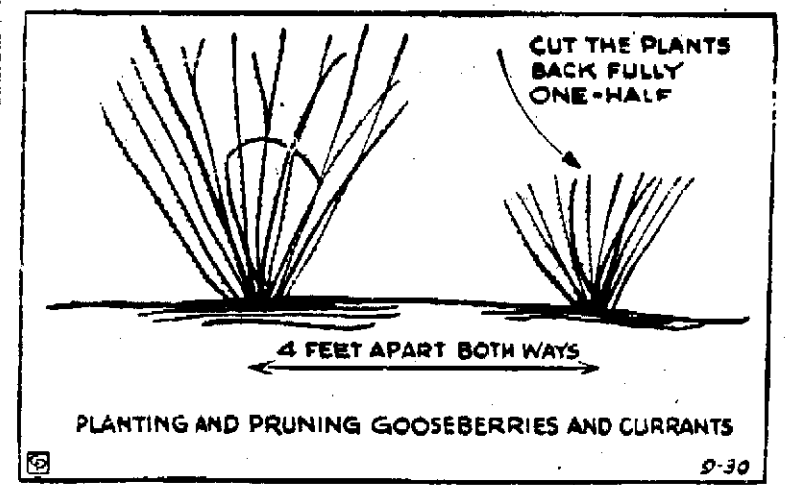

To land a single soldier fully equipped in North Africa required seven tons of shipping, and one and a half tons a month thereafter.

SEATTLE —(INS)—The protection of Washington forests from fire this summer was in the hands of 800 high school boys trained and directed by the State Forestry department. Sporting traditional red hats, calked boots and rolled up corduroy trousers, the youths kept in condition for days and nights of fire-fighting by playing roads, cutting wood and building baseball.

AID TO MANKIND SAN DIEGO, Cal. —(UP)—J. C. Bobb has gratuitously informed the city council and the public in general that for 50 years he has prevented roosters from crowing early in the morning by stretching a wire netting above their roosts so that they cannot raise their heads. He affirms that a rooster can only crow when it gets its head high above its shoulders. Bobb added that he isn't expecting financial remuneration for passing on the information.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Gooseberries and Currants for Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY Released by Central Press Ass'n. If space permits why not include gooseberry and currant bushes in your Victory Garden? When permitted to ripen thoroughly the fruits of both of these bushes are excellent for dessert purposes. For pie, jelly and jam, however, these berries are best when picked before they are fully ripe.

It is advisable to plant currants and gooseberries in the fall, as they shed their foliage early and start growth again very early in the spring. Both of these small fruits are of outstanding hardiness.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, plant the bushes four feet apart both ways. Plant them at the same depth as they formerly stood in the nursery. Cut the plants back fully one-half at planting time as illustrated.

The first winter after planting either gooseberries or currants a much of strawy manure around the bushes is desirable for protection.

PLAN POST WAR SWITCH LOS ANGELES, Cal. —(UP)—The Filtek company of Jackson, Mich., is looking after its postwar problems. It has purchased a large plant here where it will manufacture airplane parts till the end of the war, when it will shift over without delay to the manufacture of vacuum cleaners.

ONLY A NOTE

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(UP)—Considerable excitement was caused here when many residents reported seeing someone parachute from a four-engine bomber which circled over the city.

The "parachutist" turned out to be a hand-kerchief with the name of the bomber's ten crew members and a note requesting the finder to deliver it to Mrs. Cockreham of this city, mother of the ship's co-pilot.

COSTLY HELLO

PUEBLO, Colo.—(UP)—Just back from a trip to Texas, B. A. Ryan met an old acquaintance on a downtown Pueblo street. The friend was so happy to see Ryan that he slapped the rancher heartily on the back.

The slap sent Ryan crashing through a plate glass window.

ISSUES WARNING

CORVALLIS, Ore.—(INS)—Victory Gardeners were warned by Oregon State college agriculturists that they may not get what they expect if they plant seeds from their own gardens next spring. Cross-pollination may contaminate sweet corn, cucumbers, muskmelons and watermelons and some varieties of squash and pumpkins, they said.

In general peas, beans, lettuce and tomato seed can be saved without advance precautions.

SAVES METAL

NEW YORK—(INS)—To maintain power distribution with a minimum use of steel, the electrical industry—using prefabricated treated lumber in place of metal—has turned to wood for building power substations. The Public Service Electric and Gas company of New Jersey reported a saving of 40 tons of structural metal in construction of two treated wood substations.

DECREASES FIRE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The wood preserving industry predicts an ever-widening use of flame-proofed lumber by the railways where fire-resistant construction can insure against interruption of vital transportation. The chemically treated wood is recommended for use where the hazards are greatest—in foundries, fueling stations, engine houses, railway shops buildings and many other structures.

Lippy Leo Durocher Gets Gate

Rickey's Double Talk Has All Confused.

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE BASEBALL season may be closing, but the open season on managers is just starting.

In fact, it might be said to have begun yesterday with some double talk by Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who announced that he was giving Leo Durocher his outright release as player-manager although he may later consider him for a bench manager.

Rickey explained to a press conference at Pittsburgh that "I have not thought of hiring any other than Durocher, but by giving him his release we will both be free to talk about next year without any feeling of compulsion on either side. If he wants to make a connection elsewhere, either in baseball, or radio, in the movies, he will be free to do so."

The last reference apparently was to reports that Durocher might become an actors' agent in Hollywood. But the whole substance of Rickey's remarks seemed to be that he had opened the door for Durocher to leave, either under his own power or otherwise.

Durocher now is completing his fifth season as manager of the Dodgers, during which time he has won one National league pennant and never finished out of the first division. He is paid a reputed $25,000.

Before making his announcement Rickey watched the Dodgers score nine runs in the eighth inning to beat the Pirates 14-7 and out Pittsburgh from third place.

The St. Louis Cardinals clipped the Boston Braves 3-2. Rookie Alpha Brazle was unimpressive in gaining his eighth victory. He gave nine hits, walked six and fanned one.

Johnny Vander Meer pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-0 decision over the Phillies with a four-hit performance and the New York Giants battled 14 innings to a 3-3 draw with the Chicago Cubs. All the Bruins' runs were gifts, one on an error and two on walks which forced in runs.

The Washington Senators clinched second place in the American league by cutting down Cleveland twice in a twilight-night doubleheader 5-2 and 7-1. This will be the first time in seven years the Senators have finished in the first division.

The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox split a pair of shutouts with Bill Dwyer winning 3-0 for the Sox in the first game in a pitching duel with Lefty Matuszko, and Charley Wesslof retaliating with a 4-0 whitewash in the nightcap during which Joe Gordon notched his 16th homer and second in two days.

Detroit divided a doubleheader with Philadelphia, the A's taking the first game 8-2 behind the seven-hit hurling of Jesse Flores and the Tigers coming back to win the afterpiece 6-1 with Paul "Dizzy" Trout pitching a six-hitter for his 19th triumph. Rudy York hit his 24th home run and batted in three rallies.

Vernon Stephens beat the Boston Red Sox 4-3 in 13 innings for the St. Louis Browns in the first half of a doubleheader, but the second game ended in a 3-3 draw when darkness halted play after nine innings.

Stephens hit a homer in the 11th inning of the first game and smacked another (his 22nd of the year) in the 13th.

"Coach Dorris, on the other hand, sent a letter last week to Snyder, explaining the true situation in an effort to smooth out the differences between the two high schools. If these differences are not remedied shortly, all relations between the two schools will be undetermined with suspicion and doubt, local scholastic authorities have surmised.

"For the sake of scholastic sports in this section of the state, Mansfield authorities should give a little more consideration to their mud-slinging at Marion until the truth has been learned."

That's all from the Marion Star.

I like that last paragraph about mud-slinging, coming as it does after the admission that Mansfield has not made any formal protest. Up to now the only word that has come from the Mansfield coaching staff has been Snyder's expression of regret that the rivalry with Marion wasn't what he had hoped for.

That may be mud-slinging, in a dainty sort of way.

What the Marion paper didn't say, was that the Marion players actually told Mansfield Tackle Dick Jacobs and Center Bob Miller that Marion had scouted the Mansfield-Galion practice.

In his letter to Snyder last week, Coach Dorris said he put a notice on the bulletin board asking if any players had told the Tigers that Mansfield had been scouted in the practice scrimmage.

"The answer was 100 per cent 'No,'" Dorris reported.

The day after the game, Jacobs told me: "On the second play of the game the tackle opposite me asked: 'When are you going to see the shotgun defense?'"

"We used that defense just once last year," says Snyder, "in the game at Springfield."

you going to see the shotgun defense?"

Tygers Open Home Season

Benedictine Sending Band Along With Team.

After two weeks of action on foreign soil, Mansfield high school Tygers open their home football season tomorrow night at Stadium field against Cleveland St. Benedictine.

All the color of one of the season's big games will be found in this tie-fighter. In fact this may be the only game at Stadium field in which the visiting school will have its band parading with the Tyger musicians between halves.

Mansfield officials were astonished yesterday when informed that Benedictine would send its 42-piece band here for the game—warranting travel conditions being what they are.

"We promised the band one this season, and this is it," Benedictine officials explained.

Mansfield's band will not be caught napping by this sudden challenge. Although they practice for two hours every morning, they were out last night practicing under the lights and ready to go in their first appearance of the fall.

In fact everyone was practicing last night, the football team, cheer leaders, and a fair representation of the fan flock.

Coach Paul Snyder indicated the same lineup which started the Elyria game last Friday night will take the field for the Tygers, but named several boys who will see a lot of action even if they do not start, including Gene Menke, Jack Meeking and Al Etzel.

Single game tickets for the Benedictine fall may be obtained at Mayer's Drug store, Tawse Pharmacy, Yunkner Sports and Brown's Drug store, while plenty of season tickets are still available at the high school, including 50-yard line seats on the east side of the field.

All fifth and sixth grade children of the public schools will be admitted to tomorrow night's game free. Physical Director Harry Mehek has been distributing tickets at the various schools.

Red Birds Play In Little World Series

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Columbus Red Birds of the American Association will seek their third straight little world series championship in a seven-game series with the Syracuse (N. Y.) Chiefs, playoff champions of the International league.

The opening contest is scheduled for tomorrow night at Syracuse but Leo Miller, Chief's general manager, is seeking a delay until Saturday to ensure larger gate receipts in which players share for the first four games. The first three will be played at Syracuse, later games here.

Columbus shut out Indianapolis 2-0 last night to win the Association playoff finals in three straight games after having disposed of Milwaukee three games to one in the semi-finals in which Indianapolis defeated Toledo 8-2. Syracuse eliminated Newark and Toronto in post-season playoffs.

BUY OUTFIELDER

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Tony Criscola, 28-year-old outfielder who batted .317 in 86 games for the Toledo Mudhens, has been bought by the Cincinnati Reds to report next year. He is classified 3-A in the draft.

RAMS READY TO PLAY OUT GRID SCHEDULE

"We've got everything ironed out now," Coach Jeff DeHaven of the Madison high school Rams reported happily today, "and we'll finish our football schedule."

"The entire squad was out to practice last evening, and seems ready to go against Orrville tomorrow night at Orrville. Bob Anthony's injured hand is coming along satisfactorily, and he probably will get to play, although I doubt if he will be able to do any passing or kicking."

TAMI MAURIELLO KO'S GUNNAR BARLUND

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)—Tami Mauriello, New York heavyweight, registered an eight-round technical knockout over Gunnar Barlund, Finnish veteran, last night in the main event of Jack Kearns' Service athletic equipment show.

Mauriello, though out-weighted 203 pounds to 197, won with ease over his slower opponent. Barlund, however, surprised the 7,500 fans by remaining afoot throughout. Kearns announced that the equipment fund's 10 per cent of the receipts amounted to $1,500.

CHAPTER III

"Your mother was a musical comedy actress, Kit," Aunt Chris had said soberly. "Her mother, my only sister, was drowned with her husband, and father raised her as I have raised you. She was beautiful and talented and, as you know, the world was more conservative in those days and no girl who was an actress was considered respectable. Your great-grandfather never forgave her for going on the stage. He wouldn't let her come home even after she married your father and you were born. I didn't see much of her either because I was working here and your great-grandfather was old and feeble. But I visited her twice. They lived in beautiful style and seemed very happy.

"I understood your father was an investment counselor . . . Kit, dear, this is difficult to talk about . . . the story appeared in the papers. Your father had stolen money from his partner . . . There was the trial and his sentence. Your mother didn't live the year out. She died of a throat infect on very suddenly and I went up and got you.

"Kit, only my closest friends and the few who were left in my family knew that the wife of the man who went to prison was your mother. She'd changed her name, you see. On the stage she was Sylvia Fairly. To us, as you know, she was Martha. But people come and go in Washington and my friends have died or left. Evelyn is the only one left who knows. I trusted her . . . Kit, I don't know the true story of your parents. I don't suppose anyone will ever know. I brought you up to believe that they were fine people. I wanted you to think well of them."

Shivering in the thin dress and thinking of the shocked faces of her friends, Kit said, "I don't blame you. But after tonight I can't stay in Washington. You see, my friends would always think about that when they were with me. Jeff will never call me up again. Some of them will feel sorry for me because I can't help what happened. Others will hold it over me as a threat. Don't you see? I can't live it down here. I can't stay here . . .

"But what were they like, my father and mother? Martha and Hilary Marshall . . . They're just names to me."

"I've told you all I know, dear. You see, you understand, you must understand, why I must leave Washington."

Aunt Chris had smiled wryly. "I think I do, Kit. You're young. When you've lived a little longer, it won't matter so much what people say."

Kit had nodded her shining, chestnut head. "Don't you know that no one will marry me now?"

"That's nonsense, child. You're hurt, of course. The past is twisted and ugly, and you've never had any real ugliness in your life before. If go away you must, then go. I'll back you up. But, Kit, you aren't running away from your friends or past. You're running away from yourself. And you can always come back, you know . . ."

"I know. But . . . my father. What happened to him? Is he still . . ."

"Oh, no. He finished that and he went to South America. He wrote me once, only once, to tell me that he'd never interfere with you or me. He never did. Some years later his brother wrote me and told me that Hilary was dead. . . I wouldn't think too much about them if I were you, Kit. It doesn't help anything or change anything. You've never done anything wicked and your life is all before you. Now come to bed and we'll talk more about this tomorrow . . ."

It could become an obsession with her, looking at strange people on the street and wondering if any of them had known her mother and father, Kit thought, when she reached the brownstone rooming house. She smiled at a dirty-faced little boy who stuck out his tongue at her and then went on, going quickly up the steps to the warm, shabby room. Recently she had thought that she had seen more ugliness in the past three months than in all the other years of her life. Would there be ugliness in Tracy Field's world? In a life where money could buy beauty, would there be pain and ugliness?

She wrote to Aunt Chris, ending the letter, "I've never had a real adventure. Maybe this is one. I'm scared but I'm excited. It will be like going into a new world. But I loved my old world until it was smashed. I'm never coming back to Washington (you're coming up to see me) until I find again what Jane smashed. You wrote that Evelyn apparently doesn't know what happened. Jane didn't even have the decency to admit what she did that night. Perhaps, conveniently, she doesn't remember. Don't make Evelyn unhappy by telling her. It wouldn't help now. Aunt Chris, I love no one as much as you . . ."

That night she mended, pressed and packed her clothes, and gave notice to the slovenly landlady who eyed her suspiciously. Again the blinking lights across the street kept her awake. But she slept finally and awoke, alert and eager, into the sunlight of a June morning. Wearing a print frock and a navy turban, she went out to breakfast and then came back to the room and waited, her bag at the door.

About one o'clock the landlady's shrill voice shouting, "Miss Marshall, oh, Miss Marshall!" brought her out of the room to the stairs. Below she saw the landlady, drying soapy hands on a voluminous apron, and a colored chauffeur.

Kit said, "I'm ready. I'll be down in a moment."

A car, sleek and black and long-nosed, waited at the curb under the eyes of a score of impressed but curious children.

But when the chauffeur opened the door, Kit saw that she was not to occupy the luxurious back seat alone. Instantly her eyes lighted with recognition, for lounging comfortably in the back seat, a pipe between his lips, his brown eyes still tired, was the young man who had spoken to her in the restaurant yesterday.

He seemed only mildly surprised when he took the pipe from his mouth and smiled his crooked smile. "You? The little girl with the big appetite? Now don't say what a small world it is. I couldn't stand it. Come on in . . . The driving's fine . . ."

And as she was sitting beside him when the car started, "I'm Mike Saunders. Delighted to know you. Who are you? Cecil up front forgot to tell me. Very thoughtful of the usually thoughtful Cecil . . ."

Mike Saunders had his tongue in his cheek, Kit thought.

"I'm Kit Marshall. I don't know why Cecil should mention my name."

Mike grinned his likeable grin. "You don't do yourself justice, Kit. Now relax. It's quite a drive. My car's in for repairs or I should not be traveling so luxuriously. Are you Tracy's new secretary. Are you, or were you, a newspaper girl?"

"No. Why?"

"The place where I saw you yesterday is a hangout for the newspaper crowd."

"I didn't know. I went in there just by chance."

His eyes were kind but still amused. In them she read, "And you were hungry yesterday, Kit. That's why you happened there by chance. You were celebrating a job with a meal."

He asked, "Been in New York long?"

"Three months."

"No job?"

"You're asking a lot of questions."

He laughed. "That's my business, asking questions. I'm a newspaperman. So you won't talk, eh? Probably from a reformatory . . . What reformatory? I won't tell a soul . . ."

She did not know that Mike saw a cloud pass over her bright face.

Reformatory school . . . It was so closely allied to prison . . .

Mike said, "How did I get so gruesome? Let's be gay. We're going up to Connecticut, you to a job. I to swim and some tennis. You'll be up there all summer away from the heat. Scared?"

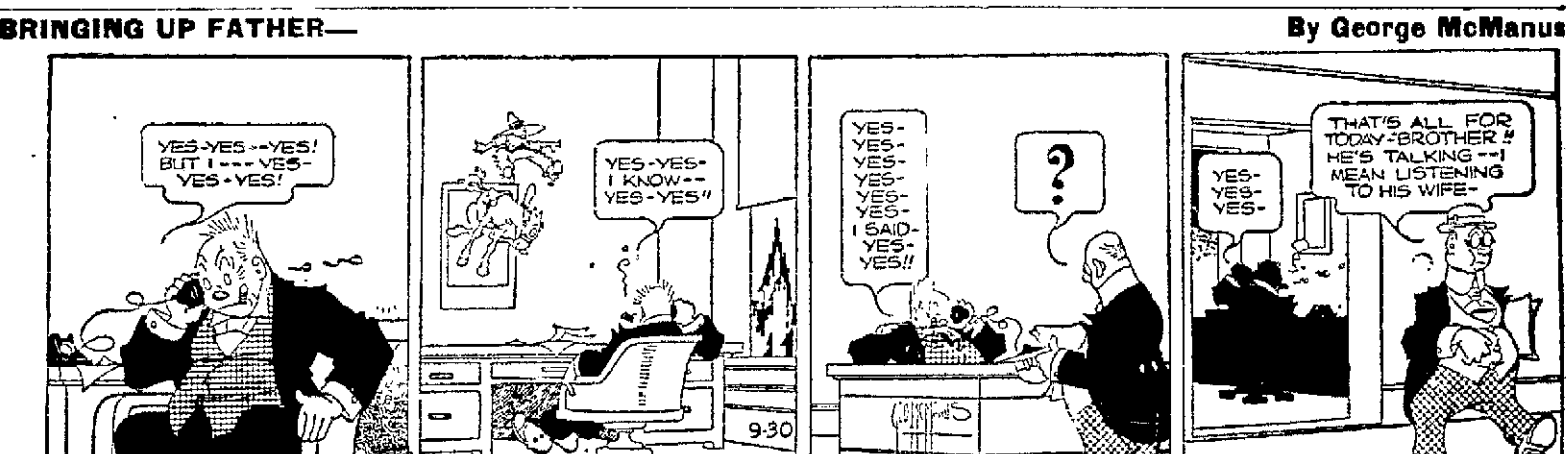

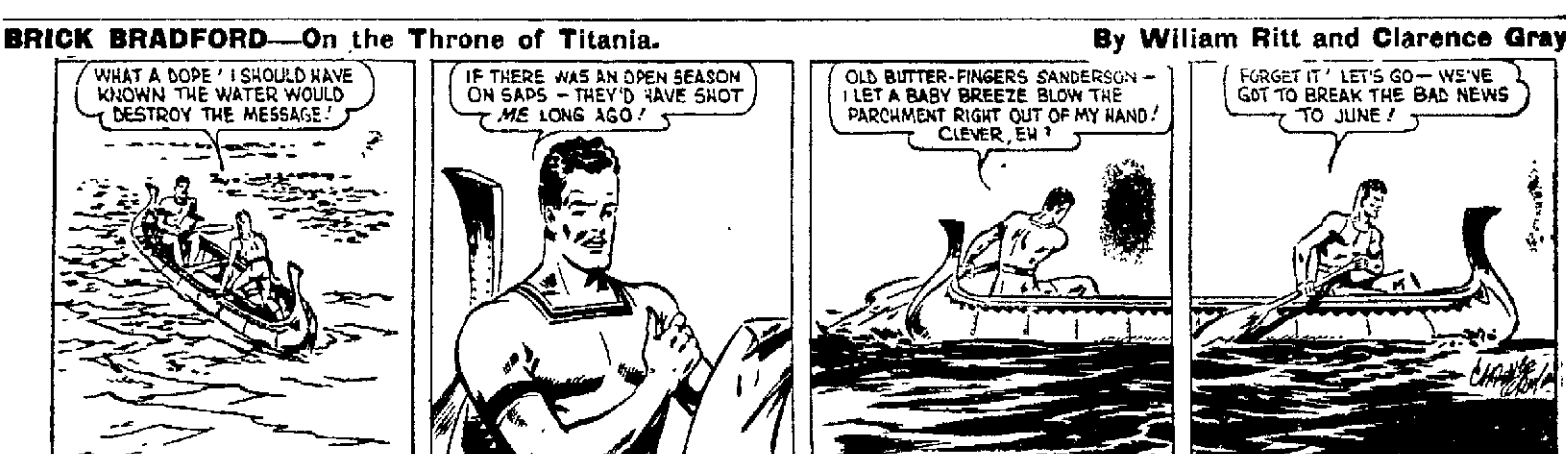

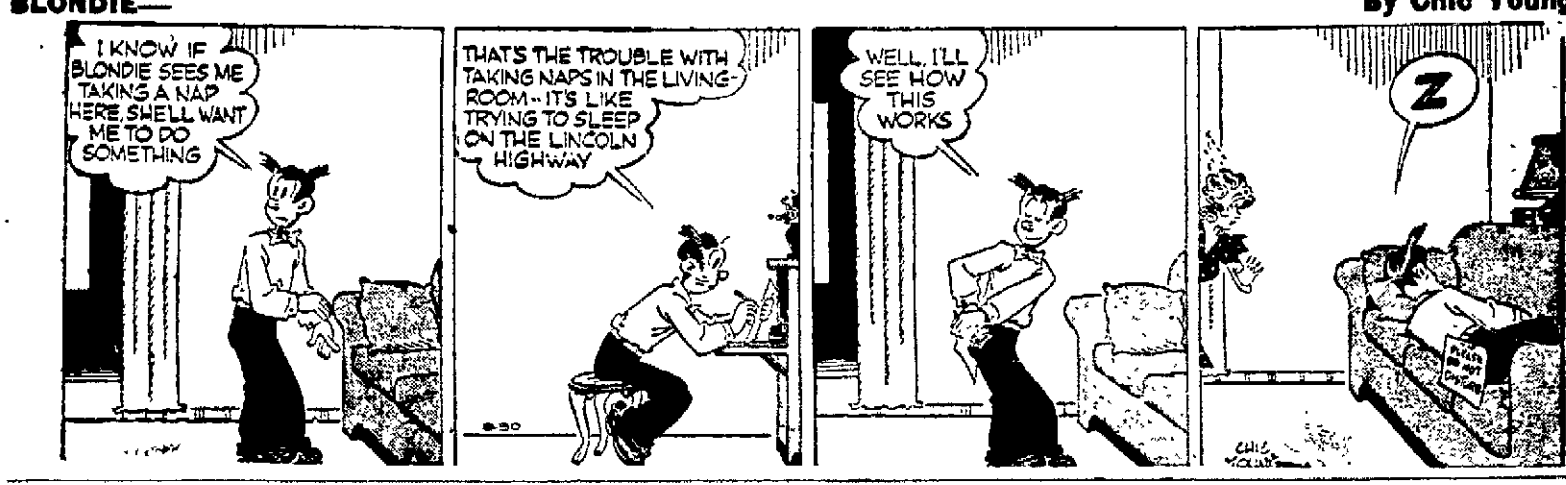

She turned and looked at him.

"Yes, a little. It's so—so new for me. And I want terribly to make good and be liked."

"Her name scares you." He nodded. "I know. But she's just a girl, another girl. But she gets her name in the papers oftener than most girls. Publicity is like peanuts. You can't stop eating them once you start, you know."

"She's never been married?" she said. She thought, "Now I'm asking a lot of questions."

STOCK MARKET LIST ADVANCES FRACTIONALLY

Gains Are Well Distributed In Early Trading; Bank
Clearings Drop.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK—(AP)—Fractional advances were well distributed among stock market leaders in today's early proceedings.
Improved at a quiet opening were Bethlehem, United Aircraft, General Motors, Baltimore & Ohio, Phelps Dodge, Standard Oil (N.J.), American Water Works, Public Service of N. J., and Phillips Petroleum.
Boardrooms studied the bank clearings summary of Dun & Bradstreet which estimated the aggregate in 23 cities for the week ended Wednesday, while exceeding the comparable period last year by 17.5 per cent, fell $1,502,549,000 from the total of the preceding week which was expanded by heavy buying of the government's third war loan.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Mill buying supported wheat at the opening today, and prices were firm. Rye held steady but oats slumped under further profit taking.
Wheat started unchanged to 1/2 lower, December $1.51 1/2-1/4, May $1.52-15 1/4, and then advanced fractionally. Rye opened unchanged 1/4 higher, December $1.09 1/2-1.10.

STOCK MARKET LIST ADVANCES FRACTIONALLY

Gains Are Well Distributed In Early Trading; Bank Clearings Drop.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK (AP)—Fractional advances were well distributed among stock market leaders in today's early proceedings.

Improved at a quiet opening were Bethlehem, United Aircraft, General Motors, Baltimore & Ohio, Phelps Dodge, Standard Oil (N.J.), American Water Works, Public Service of N. J., and Phillips Petroleum.

Boardrooms studied the bank clearings summary of Dun & Bradstreet which estimated the aggregate in 23 cities for the week ended Wednesday, while exceeding the comparable period last year by 17.5 per cent, fell $1,502,549,000 from the total of the preceding week which was expanded by heavy buying of the government's third war loan.

CHICAGO (AP)—Mill buying supported wheat at the opening today, and prices were firm. Rye held steady but oats slumped under further profit taking.

Wheat started unchanged to 1/4 lower, December $1.51 1/4-1/2, May $1.52-15 1/4, and then advanced fractionally. Rye opened unchanged to 1/4 higher, December $1.09 1/4-1/2.

NOVEL BOND IDEA

EAST LIVERPOOL —(A)— A local jeweler hit upon an almost sure-fire war bond selling idea. He offered an alarm clock free to each bond purchaser and gave away 114 clocks as this city moved within $1,000,000 of its $2,745,000 war loan quota.

FIFTH ROLLING OVER PLAINS TO BURNING NAPLES

Skirts Mt. Vesuvius, Takes Pompeii in Advance as Germans Retreat.

The capture of Torre Annunziata would place the Fifth Army nine miles from Naples' city limits along the flat plane bordering the gulf.

Even if the Germans planned a temporary stand on the western slope of Vesuvius, it was probable that the entry into Naples would be within a day or two.

In capturing Mercato San Severino, the Allies continued to develop their flanking movement against the city. The town is eight miles northeast of Nocera, capture of which was announced yesterday, and about 12 miles southwest of Avellino, the communications center east of Naples.

The capture of Naples will complement perfectly the earlier seizure of Foggia air center.

Naples' great harbor is big enough to accommodate a tremendous marshalling of force and may become the main fleet, supply and ground force base for the Italian campaign, as Foggia may become the main air base for a drive up the peninsula or into the Balkans.

Meanwhile, the slow pressure against the Germans promised to give to the Allies soon the substantial island base of Corsica. From there and from Sardinia they can threaten the seaward flank of the enemy.

Gen. Montgomery's thrust northward along the Adriatic also poised along the Vulture river, some 20 miles north of Naples.

The Eighth army was not encountering any resistance worthy of the name and was expanding rapidly in the plain of Foggia, which was now almost entirely under Allied domination.

The steady and studied development of invasion bases across the Adriatic from the Balkans was illustrated by the capture of Manfredonia on the spur of the boot, a fairly important seaport.

After being grounded several days by bad weather, Allied air forces yesterday attacked rail and highway bridges heavily within a 25-mile radius east, northeast and north of Naples.

The approaches to the bottleneck bridge at Castelvenere on the Naples-Benevento road were ripped up in one of these forays.

The Middle East air force announced new bombings of enemy airdromes in Greece and Rhodes and said the Germans struck at the British-occupied island of Crete in the Dodecanese yesterday.

Medium bombers of the North African air force took to the air and raided Cancelli, Benevento, Formia, Piano and Amorosa—all along escape routes that German forces must use in withdrawing before the advancing Allied forces.

The communique said road junctions were hit around Cancelli, 13 miles northeast of Naples, near Amorosa, 27 miles to the northeast, and around Piano.

Fighters and fighter-bombers also swept over the Benevento battle area, 32 miles northeast of Naples toward the center of the peninsula, attacking targets that presented themselves. Fighter bombers shot up a bridge near Apollinare.

A night flight to Formia, along the coast 43 miles northwest of Naples, was the deepest penetration into enemy territory.

One Allied aircraft failed to return during the day. No German planes were encountered, the communique said.

The bulletin made belated announcement of the destruction of three additional enemy aircraft in a dogfight Sept. 25.

Three British War Correspondents Killed

LONDON.—(P)—Three British war correspondents with the American Fifth Army have been killed near Naples, it was announced today. They were listed as A. B. Austin of the London Daily Herald, Stewart G. Sale of Reuters News Service and William J. Munday of the Sydney Morning Herald and the London News-Chronicle.

The British news men were with the leading units of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's armor advancing upon Nocera, and it was after they had seen enemy opposition wiped out on the outskirts of the town that they were killed.

Ironically, the news that the correspondents had been killed reached London only a few hours after a prophetic story by Austin had appeared in today's Daily Herald under the heading "On The Road To Death."

Find Warship and Leave It Ablaze

CAIRO.—(AP)—British Beaufighters searched five days for an enemy warship in the Aegean sea, finally found it, and left it listing heavily and spouting smoke, it was announced today.

The Warship, not otherwise identified, was escorting a merchant convoy.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, backache and dizziness. Frequent uric acid passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

TAFT BILL ON WAY TO SENATE

Ohio Senator Seeks Support of Both Parties For His Father-Draft Plan.

(Continued From Page 1) fathers into two age groups and require induction of those under 30 first. Clark wanted three age groups—18-25, 25-30, and over 30.

Taft hoped to win Clark back on the grounds that his deferment limitations not only would get at alleged manpower hoarding in government bureaus but also at young men in war industries.

Taft said some senators wanted him to raise the non-deferment age to 38 but he felt that 30 established a more equitable notch.

"A man over 30 probably is more likely to be doing something really important," Taft said. "Drafting of men under that age probably would have less effect on the jobs in which they are employed."

Administration leaders, who are opposing the Wheeler bill, withheld comment on the Taft proposal. Sen. Lister Hill, D. Ala., suggested that Taft's compromise or any other such proposal probably should be studied by the senate military affairs committee before final senate action.

CITY TAKES UP AIRPORT FUNDS

Faces Job of Raising $161,000 To Buy Land and Re-locate Utility Lines.

The Chamber of Commerce airport committee is negotiating with the Mansfield Telephone company, which asked $25,993 for moving its lines, and the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which seeks approximately $17,000, and will turn the final figures over to the city within a few days, it was said.

The next move in acquiring the necessary land for the project will be taken by council in setting up the funds, and then the city will begin its negotiations for the actual land purchase.

Mayor Locke said that he and Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff probably would deal with owners of the 19 parcels for the property the city wants.

SEVEN MEN ON RAFT CAMPAIGN

They'll Stay On It Until Oregon Hits Bond Goal.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—Oregon's seven men on a raft will leave the Willamette river tonight—raft and all—to do their part in the Third War Bond drive.

The raft and its occupants, unshaven, hungry, and weary, will be hoisted onto a truck for a tour of the waterfront invasion expedition, a feature of Portland's bond drive.

Then back to the river and the slim remains of the emergency rations with which they pushed off in the navy life raft 12 days ago. They vowed to remain on the raft until Oregon filled its Third War Loan quota of $104,000,000.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

One of the best-liked farmers in these parts is Bert Childers! And he has the best way of beating the man shortage, too.

Come husking time, Bert invites all of his farmer neighbors over to have a glass of beer. When they ask politely "Where's the beer?" Bert points to a bucket-full of frosty bottles in the middle of the field.

"All you got to do," he says, "is work your way out to it."

Well, Bert's idea has caught on all over the countryside.

Folks are pitching in to help their neighbors harvest grain, and fruit, and vegetables—and are taking their reward in sociability when the job's done.

And from where I sit, that's a mighty healthy picture of American life—people working together to get in the food this country needs—and afterwards, sittin' around like good friends, over a moderate glass of wholesome beer. I'm for it!

Deprived of their strongest

Thousands of Germans strug-

(A German communique broad-

Russians are "using ruthlessly fresh divisions with air support," the communique said. It also rea bridgehead on the west bank of the middle Dnieper "in terrain which was difficult to observe."

Farther north, the Germans were said to have carried out "orderly

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

As for politics, a lot of henchmen are just turning into hunch men, without any fixed principles.

Sure, we're in a state of advanced civilization. Look at all the pre-cooked food and pre-fabricated houses and pre-empted jobs.

America's growing lyrical again, with everybody writing songs. But the trouble is that everybody's writing everybody else's songs, and publishers don't dare print 'em.

Still Not Cleared Up

THE PASSAGE of time since it was first suggested that a new post was in the offing for Gen. George C. Marshall, American chief of staff, has done nothing to clear up the situation.

There have been statements of all sorts—from the president, from the general himself, and from congressmen and senators.

But still nothing definite has come from any of them.

Gen. Marshall's statement urged that all speculation be ended, in the interest of army unity in the prosecution of the war. That is the kind of statement a good soldier would make.

All kinds of attitudes and beliefs were revealed in the statements of congressmen and senators.

At his press conference, however, President Roosevelt left the question up in the air. He would not confirm or deny that Marshall would have a new command. He indicated displeasure with the first news story to intimate that Marshall would change posts, written by an International News Service correspondent. He indicated pleasure over a New York Herald Tribune editorial which said none of the stories about Marshall was from a source sufficiently sure of its ground to stand directly behind the information.

Be that as it may, and granting that there might be reasons of military advantage for not disclosing the future plans for Gen. Marshall, it isn't easy to forget that it took the president an awfully long time to get around to confirming the fact that Sumner Welles had resigned as under-secretary of state—a fact that had been known to the country at large for two weeks.

Everyday Weapons

ADVERTISING is a major weapon of the home front," says the U. S. department of commerce. True enough. "Paper is a weapon of the war," says another authority. It's the stuff by which information is given out reliably to the people. "Food is a weapon" say those concerned with that necessity of war and peace. They, too, are right in saying so.

In other words, the best way to win the war is to turn the everyday activities and materials in the direction of war. Running away from the daily needs to do something strange and new and different is not always the best way to further the great effort. Sticking to the job and making the job work well has its points, too.

Dead Cities of War

NAPLES looks as dead as Pompeii," writes a news correspondent. And anyone who has seen the visible remnants of that old city, between Naples and Mount Vesuvius, knows how very dead it must be. A modern city of a million people has been deliberately wrecked and burned. This is far worse than the tragedy which overcame the suffocated Romans 2,000 years ago, for there were only about 20,000 victims then.

An imaginative person may find himself wondering how many cities have been wantonly burned in this war and how many people made homeless and how much property destroyed. Facts are naturally hard to get. But there are probably American insurance men who could do a pretty good job of figuring out the total damage done by Hitler and his gang so far, in the greatest assault ever made against civilization.

They would have to figure, too, the damage done necessarily to those same cities by owners and defenders in their bitter task of driving out the intruders. Even volcanoes might be preferable to some of the human destroyers.

Proletarian and Plutocrat

THE RUSSIANS seem very "cagey" in their conduct of foreign affairs. And it is natural, perhaps, in view of the way they have been ignored and ostracized until lately by the Allied Nations. But there are ways to bridge the gap between these two groups which, militarily and economically, must travel together for a while. And one effective method, strange to say, seems to be a plutocratic procedure.

Comrade Stalin and his associates, though distrusting everything political and ideological in this country, seem to have a liking for American business men—and the bigger, the better. So the government at Washington, with more shrewdness than it sometimes displays in such matters, has been linking the war effort of the two countries, as you might say, with golden chains. Along with the great stores of war materials and foodstuff that it pours into Russia, it utilizes some of the richest men in the American diplomatic service. Two recent examples are Edward R. Stettinius, jr., who has been serving as lend lease administrator, and W. Averell Harriman, similarly occupied in London. They will go to Moscow together.

The wealth of these men, together, may amount to a couple of hundred millions. It is a fine thing to have them serving Uncle Sam, and no less fine to see the heads of a proletarian government on such good terms with them.

Younger Voting Age

THE MOVEMENT to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 is spreading. In Ohio the League of Young Democrats has just taken a stand in its favor. As Ohio is a state possessing the constitutional initiative, whereby a given number of voters can, without having recourse to the legislature, put a constitutional amendment on the ballot, the measure has a double chance of speedy presentation to the voters.

This proposed enfranchisement of the young was started a few weeks ago by Georgia, whose voters put such a provision in their constitution. Its fundamental argument is, "If they are old enough to fight, they are old enough to vote." It may be a good issue for ambitious politicians to tie to.

Fall of Foggia, Key Italian Air Base, Spells New Grief for Axis

CAPTURE of Foggia in southern Italy—great communications center and focal point of a baker's dozen up-to-date airdromes—represents one of the major triumphs of the Mediterranean war, for it's the key to vast new fields of Allied endeavor.

Possession of Foggia will permit us to unleash a fresh tornado of bombing and fighting planes. First off, it should greatly expedite the conquest of the Italian peninsula, for it will go far towards breaking the back of German resistance there. An early development should be Nazi evacuation of the hotly contested Naples region.

But our gun-sights can be raised to much more distant horizons. From Foggia we can reach into Germany to vital centers which heretofore have been difficult to bomb. The Balkans lie open to the flying fists of Foggia—a matter of the utmost importance at this moment when the cockpit of southeastern Europe is squirming to escape Hitler's clutch.

Italy isn't the only theater to produce sensations however, for the Russians have broached a new operation which may be a blockbuster. That's up on the Leningrad end of their flaming front.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Dr. William T. Morton for the first time used ether as an human anesthetic, Sept. 30, 1846. He had been experimenting with animals in the use of ether before he tried it, 37 years ago, on one Eben Frost, who had a toothache. Morton was a dentist, and that historic day he was 27 years old.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAD three reasons for being present at the Ringling Bros.-Barnum and Bailey circus. The three boys, aged 12, 8 and 6, hung to my hands and my coat tails. It was a fine fall Saturday—we might have stayed at home and dug potatoes. But you know how children are. There was nothing to do but take them.

They were excited. The oldest got so eager that he ran ahead, straightaway got lost in the crowd, and hunted 20 minutes before he found me again. Meanwhile I waited near the spot where he ran ahead, like a worried papa bent with only two chicks. If the idea makes sense to you.

We took in everything from cotton candy to the sideshow with the giants eight feet tall. We sat upon a hard seat for three hours and munched peanuts and looked and laughed and wondered. We drank soft drinks and ate ice cream and later watched the keepers feed the lions.

Two preachers, each with his "reason" beside him, were seated near us. Each told me, confidentially, that he had brought the youngsters. We waited an hour before the show began, since reserved seats were too expensive, and we went to the far end of the big tent—500 feet long, 200 wide, to seat 12,000 people.

Came the band—a blare of sound! Prancing horses, lumbering wagons with wild animals in them, a long train of elephants, each holding to the tail of the one in front of him, with the tip of his trunk. It was a reproduction of the old time street parade of my own childhood. . . . In those days the parade was worth half the circus.

Gay costumes, brilliant colors, music and motion. . . . performances began in all three rings at once. Overhead the trapeze artists swung and tumbled, and dived in long swoops, catching hold of each other's hands at just the right instant. The boys were on the edge of their seat, wide-eyed. "It's just like in the movies, only real," one whispered.

Circus Day

It was long after dark when we got home. The boys' mother had begun to worry. "Which one of them did you lose?" she asked.

"How did you know?" I faltered, blankly.

"Well—knowing all of you, I thought it would be either the littlest boy or the biggest one."

The littlest boy had begun to feel queer. It wasn't much fun, being crowded so, while I was doing it," he remarked with a wry, mouth and big tears welling up in his blue eyes. "My stomach aches something awful."

He was sick half the night. . . . all next day about the barn when the chores were done I heard lions roar and the heavy tramp of elephants' feet. A rope was stretched across the mow and a swing hung from a girder. The show must go on!

It Says Here:

—By D. K. W.

The senate naval affairs committee certainly has plenty of courage. Its members have voted down a proposal to permit the navy department to send WAVES overseas. And do you know who was backing the plan? A lot of women's organizations and Eleanor Roosevelt.

You remember what happened to Harry Hopkins when he and Mrs. Roosevelt disagreed? He had to move out of the White House. Those senators had better look out, or they'll have to move right out of Washington.

Besides, you can imagine how the WAVES feel. They're supposed to be the sailors yet they've got to stay home while the WACs get to go abroad. At first glance it looks downright mean of the senators but it's possible they know what the navy department wants and would rather string along with the admirals than with the ladies, including Eleanor.

As Others See It

Explanation.

Efficiency on Lend-Lease Gives Russia Confidence in Stettinius

WASHINGTON—Ed Stettinius, the new undersecretary of state, is known by Washington insiders for three things: (1) How wrong he was regarding aluminum; (2) How right he was regarding rubber; and (3) His close association with the Russians.

The platinum-haired young U. S. Steel executive was the man who took the word of the Aluminum corporation that it could supply ample aluminum and refused to okay more factory facilities at a time when Leon Henderson, Bob Nathan and other planners were warning, wringing their hands, and yelling that we must prepare to produce more aluminum.

Learning his lesson from aluminum, Stettinius later got out in front and on rubber he was the man who constantly needed Jesse Jones for nearly two years, urging that we begin building synthetic rubber plants—all to no avail. Jesse would not listen.

Stettinius' experience with the Russians was what influenced his appointment as undersecretary of state. It began when lend-lease was a pitiful dribble trickling through to the Red army. The Russians, promised mountains, but given molehills, were distressed. They could not understand the red tape, the delays.

Once Gen. Golikov, first head of the Russian lend-lease mission in Washington, went to the White House and, speaking through an interpreter, said that if Stalin had ordered a thing done and then found it didn't get done for three weeks, the men responsible for the delay would be kicked out. Later, Gen. Golikov, disgusted, went back to Russia, is winning victories as commander of the Bryansk front.

Russians Puzzled.

What the Russians couldn't understand was that the United States, the most industrialized nation in the world, the wealthiest, and one of the biggest, had only a few tanks, only a few guns, very little ammunition.

They did not realize that the U. S. A., a firm believer in peace, actually maintained, until a short time before Pearl Harbor, one of the smallest armies in the world. So, for a while the Russians actually thought we were holding out on them.

Gradually, however, Ed Stettinius dispelled this idea. He really went to bat. The Russians have seen him hold up a convoy while he picked up the long distance phone and persuaded factories to rush certain Russian goods. Stettinius would never accept "No."

Stettinius brought order and efficiency to lend-lease. Simultaneously the Russians brought their best experts to the U. S. A. And their mission probably functions more efficiently even than the British. They know what they want, ask for it, and aren't satisfied until they get it. They never discuss politics, regard their political system as different from ours, and don't want them mixed. They stick entirely to technical discussions.

So they believe in Stettinius, and his actions as undersecretary of state should have Russian confidence.

Note: Although Stettinius has turned out to be a courageous, hard-working, successful government administrator, his success as a U. S. Steel executive was largely mythical. He inherited this job because of his father's prominence, and U. S. Steel was rather glad to see him patriotically promoted upstairs to work for his country.

Army's Favorite Foods.

Since the Truman committee's investigation of food waste in the army, the Quartermaster corps has been as frugal as a Dutch housewife. Elaborate studies have been made of what the soldiers eat and what they leave on the plate, with the idea of cutting down the percentage of garbage.

It's hard on the pig farmers.

Dave Boone Says:

TO THE average housewife Foggia, Naples, Kiev and even Dnepropetrovsk have taken a back seat in the war news. Butter eclipsed 'em all when OPA upped the ration points to 16 per pound.

That almost takes it right out of the American kitchen and puts it in the safety deposit vault.

Sixteen points per week has been her total allotment for meat, butter and cheese up to now. So she's got to do some tall figuring.

OPA took pig's feet, knuckles, brains, ears, tails and snouts off the meat ration list but that didn't soften the blow. You can't spread pigs' feet on bread. And it ain't easy to do it with their snouts or ears either.

It's only a coincidence that Prentiss Brown, OPA chief, announces that he is planning to retire any day now. I guess, and I can't resist saying, that maybe he took the job for "butter" or worse.

Words of the Wise

Order is the sanity of the mind, the health of the body, the peace of the city, the security of the state. —Seneca.

The fact that God has prohibited despair gives misfortune the right to hope all things, and leaves hope free to dare all things. —Mad. Swetchine.

After watching the eating habits of 16,000 soldiers at Chanute Field, Ill., the Quartermaster corps gave each dish a rating, according to its popularity.

Roasted chicken and apple pie rated 100. So did roast duck and roast ham. But creamed ham rated only 55. (QMC dietitian Mary I. Barber explains: "Not many men like messed up food. Artemus Ward said, 'When I eat hash, I like to know what I'm eating.'")

Another unpopular dish was oyster stew, 58. (Westerners are suspicious of seafood.) Baked liver rated 75 and beef hearts 78.

In the vegetable field, QMC was puzzled to find canned peas more popular than frozen peas (79 to 59). Canned cream corn is the most popular vegetable (90), so it won a place on the menu for the coming Christmas dinner. And canned peas won a place on the Thanksgiving menu.

No matter what you may do to butter up spinach, it remains spinach and the soldiers gave it a rating of 41. It was just about the lowest of all.

Drastic Tire Shortage.

An OPA expert makes the private forecast that by next February the country will be crying for Rubber Czar Jeffers to come back to Washington to finish the job of getting synthetic tires for the country. It is believed here by those who know the tire situation that the crest of the wave which Jeffers went out on is rapidly becoming a trough.

Jeffers has estimated that seventeen million tires, both new and used, will be available in 1943. But OPA estimates that twenty-five million tires will be needed this year—not seventeen million. Thus, a shortage of eight million is indicated by the end of this year.

One index of the shortage is the fact that there are between 350,000 and 400,000 "floating certificates"—that is, certificates which have been granted by rationing boards for tires, new or used, but for which tires have not been found by the holder.

OPA experts describe the situation as "terribly serious" with emphasis on trucks. There are approximately five million trucks in the country, of which one million have been disqualified from obtaining any additional tires, new or used. The other four million may obtain such tires if they are to be had.

Those who know the inside story are much worried by the fact that the country got a bull's impression about rubber and tires from the resignation of Jeffers, which was generally interpreted as meaning that the situation was well in hand and that the emergency was over. The contrary, however, appears to be the fact. More than one insider is saying today that Jeffers got out of the way just before the roof fell in.

Merry-Go-Round.

A high, air-minded War department official says the length of the war depends on the weather this winter. If the weather is favorable for flying, the war in Europe might be over before next summer. . . . Word has come back to Washington from Buenos Aires that a large shipment of U. S. aspirin, sent to an approved Argentine drug firm, was surreptitiously transferred to a German drug firm and retailed by them. The Argentine government does not recognize the U. S. black list. Being a Slightly Fantastic Account of a Perilous Sea Voyage From Long Island to New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—Sure did have a lot of fun on that voyage over from Long Island. Lot of people killed, and the boat sank twice, and we ran out of food on the 37th day out (Daylight Time), and had to eat the lifeboats.

Just got in here this evening, all ragged and tuckered out. We were 96 days on that voyage. Or was it 96 minutes? Time gets all mixed up at sea, you know. And then there's Daylight time. I guess it was 96 minutes by Daylight time.

Well, to start at the beginning. As soon as we got away from the dock at Orient Point half a dozen of us got together and decided to badger the captain. One girl said: "Oh captain captain, when do we cross the meridian?"

And another one said: "Oh captain, tell us, about your most thrilling moment at sea."

And still another one said: "Captain, I'm from the Steamboat Inspection service. Let's see your papers." Just like a girl, isn't it?

And I personally thought up this crack: "Captain dear captain, are you master of your fate?" But we finally didn't use that one, because I couldn't remember whether it was "master of your fate" or "master of your soul."

The captain didn't answer anyhow, so we got out the long boats and we rowed against the wind, man and boy, for three days and a half. When we got to Block Island there wasn't anything there except water.

About that time the mate walked by and I said to him: "Mate, how's your suppers?"

The mate said: "Don't call me mate. Call me Paul."

By this time we were three score and ten minutes out of Long Island, and you couldn't see a bit of land unless you looked out the window. So I said to the captain, I said: "Captain, why are women and children first?" He answered that one.

"It's just a foolish belief held in some ports," he said. "Sort of a superstition, like some people think that smoking cigarettes before breakfast is bad for your stomach."

We passed Fisher's Island on the starboard bow, and saw a guy lying on the beach, wearing only a loincloth and reading the ten best books. Shipwrecked, I guess.

The boy in overalls came into the salon to take our order for a sandwich. I sure made that boy look silly. I said to him: "Boy, what are those rubber buttons on the back of all these chairs for?"

"That's so when the chairs fall over they won't scuff up the wall," he said.

"But my good man," I replied, "the rubber buttons are about halfway down the back of the chair. The top of the chair would hit the wall first, and the rubber buttons would never touch it."

"I never thought of that," the boy said. "I'll go ask the steward."

He never came back. We finally decided he didn't care. But half an hour later we saw the steward floating in the water, face down. Maybe the boy did care.

The captain walked by again. I said: "Captain, I've just been figuring, and I figure that if I had paid the same rate per hour on the freighter last spring coming around from California that we are paying on this tub of yours, the three-weeks' freighter trip would have cost us just $1860, instead of $265 as it did. Laugh that off. Or may be I better laugh it off." The captain said for me to laugh it off.

The door of the cabin got to banging back and forth, so I took out my screwdriver and took it off the hinges and threw it in the ocean. The screwdriver, I mean.

Just then the captain walked by. I said: "Captain, where's Connecticut at? I'm feelin' a little green around the gills."

And the little guy across the table who hadn't said a word all evening said: "Captain, if you're the captain, why ain't you up on the bridge, gettin' your bearings?"

We sure had the Old Man seeing red, and he was going to have up put in chains, but while he was down in the engine room looking for them, we rammed into the dock at New London. The old boat just stood right up on her nose and dived for the bottom, carrying the women and children down first.

As I went down for the third time, I saw the captain standing on the ledge, holding a pistol to his head. He fired twice and missed both times. Then, with a mighty oath, he stomped off onto the dock, got in a taxi, and went home for supper. My watch had stopped at 7:33. Daylight time. That was the end.

(Confidential Note to Editor: The above is slightly exaggerated for dramatic effect. It took us an hour and a half to cross the Sound was just like a floor, the people on board were all stupid, and I never did see the captain. I don't think there was any captain. You might ask the Steamboat Inspection Service.)

SENIOR HIGH TO HAVE YEAR BOOK AGAIN IN 1944

Staff Prepares For Putting Out Annual; Has Difficulty In Picture Needs.

Publication of the "Manhigan," Mansfield Senior high school year book, will be resumed this year after being dropped last spring because of the shortage of materials needed to publish the annual.

Probably no staff in the high school will feel the impact of the war any more than the "Manhigan" editorial department. The staff still has the problem of getting individual pictures of the graduating classes. Because no photographer will undertake to make individual pictures of the classes, each member has been asked to furnish his or her own photograph for the book.

Because there was no "Manhigan" published last year, the members of last year's graduating classes will have their individual photographs in the book if they furnish their own pictures.

The book will be approximately the same size and as nearly like the books in the past as is possible this year. It will be distributed on Class day, Friday, May 19. There will be the usual sections devoted to the graduating class, underclasses, sports, organizations, staff of the school and the informal life around the building.

Chosen as editor-in-chief will be Lloyd Shawber. Sports editor will be Carl Schaefer. J. G. Van Arman and George Sherman are the faculty advisors. Members of the staff to be assigned posts later are: Harold Bricker, Shirley Angerson, Margaret Aubrey, Kathryn Fensch and Ruth Seese, seniors; Curtis Comer, David Oberlin, Barbara Devors, Nancy McCombs, Barbara Oberlander and Elaine Watson, juniors; Donald Richardson, George Ridenour and Marilyn Kessel, sophomores.

GET JAP SABER THAT CUT HIM

WITH U. S. TROOPS OUTSIDE MUNDA, New Georgia—(U.P.)—Army Pvt. Millard R. Morrison, Whitterville, Tenn., today carries a Japanese officer's saber that he captured the hard way.

Morrison and George Gordon Hescock, Wilmington, Vt., were manning a gun position at night during the drive against Munda airport. They heard Japs prowling around the outlying jungle. One of the Nips came through the jungle, charging at the two Americans.

Morrison's gun jammed, and Hescock was unable to remove the pin from his grenade before the officer lunged into the nest. Hescock, on his back, kicked the Jap. The enemy swung twice at Morrison, inflicting saber wounds on both legs, then shot Hescock in the left shoulder at close range.

Hescock crawled to the next foxhole for assistance while Morrison pounded the Jap with his gun butt. A fellow soldier, Bill Mears from Alabama, came over and stabbed the Jap officer to death.

Morrison, by common consent, received the sword as compensation for his saber wounds.

REFUSES WIFE

INDIANAPOLIS—(U.P.)—Chief Carpenters Mate Robert G. Noyes, a Navy See Bee who returned from active duty in Africa, said the United States dollar has a high value there, but added that he did not take advantage of some of the bargains that were offered.

"A tribe leader wanted to sell me a daughter for eight dollars," Noyes said. "When I refused, he offered me his son's wife, and finally his own wife."

"I wasn't in the market," he said.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

As for politics, a lot of henchmen are just turning into hunch men, without any fixed principles.

Sure, we're in a state of advanced civilization... Look at all the pre-cooked food and pre-fabricated houses and pre-empted jobs.

America's growing lyrical again, with everybody writing songs. But the trouble is that everybody's writing everybody else's songs, and publishers don't dare print 'em.

Still Not Cleared Up

THE PASSAGE of time since it was first suggested that a new post was in the offing for Gen. George C. Marshall, American chief of staff, has done nothing to clear up the situation.

There have been statements of all sorts—from the president, from the general himself, and from congressmen and senators.

But still nothing definite has come from any of them. Gen. Marshall's statement urged that all speculation be ended, in the interest of army unity in the prosecution of the war. That is the kind of statement a good soldier would make.

All kinds of attitudes and beliefs were revealed in the statements of congressmen and senators.

At his press conference, however, President Roosevelt left the question up in the air. He would not confirm or deny that Marshall would have a new command. He indicated displeasure with the first news story to intimate that Marshall would change posts, written by an International News Service correspondent. He indicated pleasure over a New York Herald Tribune editorial which said none of the stories about Marshall was from a source sufficiently sure of its ground to stand directly behind the information.

Be that as it may, and granting that there might be reasons of military advantage for not disclosing the future plans for Gen. Marshall, it isn't easy to forget that it took the president an awfully long time to get around to confirming the fact that Sumner Welles had resigned as under-secretary of state—a fact that had been known to the country at large for two weeks.

Everyday Weapons

ADVERTISING is a major weapon of the home front," says the U. S. department of commerce. True enough. "Paper is a weapon of the war," says another authority. It's the stuff by which information is given out reliably to the people. "Food is a weapon" say those concerned with that necessity of war and peace. They, too, are right in saying so.

In other words, the best way to win the war is to turn the everyday activities and materials in the direction of war. Running away from the daily needs to do something strange and new and different is not always the best way to further the great effort. Sticking to the job and making the job work well has its points, too.

Dead Cities of War

NAPLES looks as dead as Pompeii," writes a news correspondent. And anyone who has seen the visible remnants of that old city, between Naples and Mount Vesuvius, knows how very dead it must be. A modern city of a million people has been deliberately wrecked and burned. This is far worse than the tragedy which overcame the suffocated Romans 2,000 years ago, for there were only about 20,000 victims then.

An imaginative person may find himself wondering how many cities have been wantonly burned in this war and how many people made homeless and how much property destroyed. Facts are naturally hard to get. But there are probably American insurance men who could do a pretty good job of figuring out the total damage done by Hitler and his gang so far, in the greatest assault ever made against civilization.

They would have to figure, too, the damage done necessarily to those same cities by owners and defenders in their bitter task of driving out the intruders. Even volcanoes might be preferable to some of the human destroyers.

Proletarian and Plutocrat

THE RUSSIANS seem very "cagey" in their conduct of foreign affairs. And it is natural, perhaps, in view of the way they have been ignored and ostracized until lately by the Allied Nations. But there are ways to bridge the gap between these two groups which, militarily and economically, must travel together for a while. And one effective method, strange to say, seems to be a plutocratic procedure.

Comrade Stalin and his associates, though distrusting everything political and ideological in this country, seem to have a liking for American business men—and the bigger, the better. So the government at Washington, with more shrewdness than it sometimes displays in such matters, has been linking the war effort of the two countries, as you might say, with golden chains. Along with the great stores of war materials and foodstuff that it pours into Russia, it utilizes some of the richest men in the American diplomatic service. Two recent examples are Edward R. Stettinius, jr., who has been serving as lend lease administrator, and J. Averill Harriman, similarly occupied in London. They will go to Moscow together.

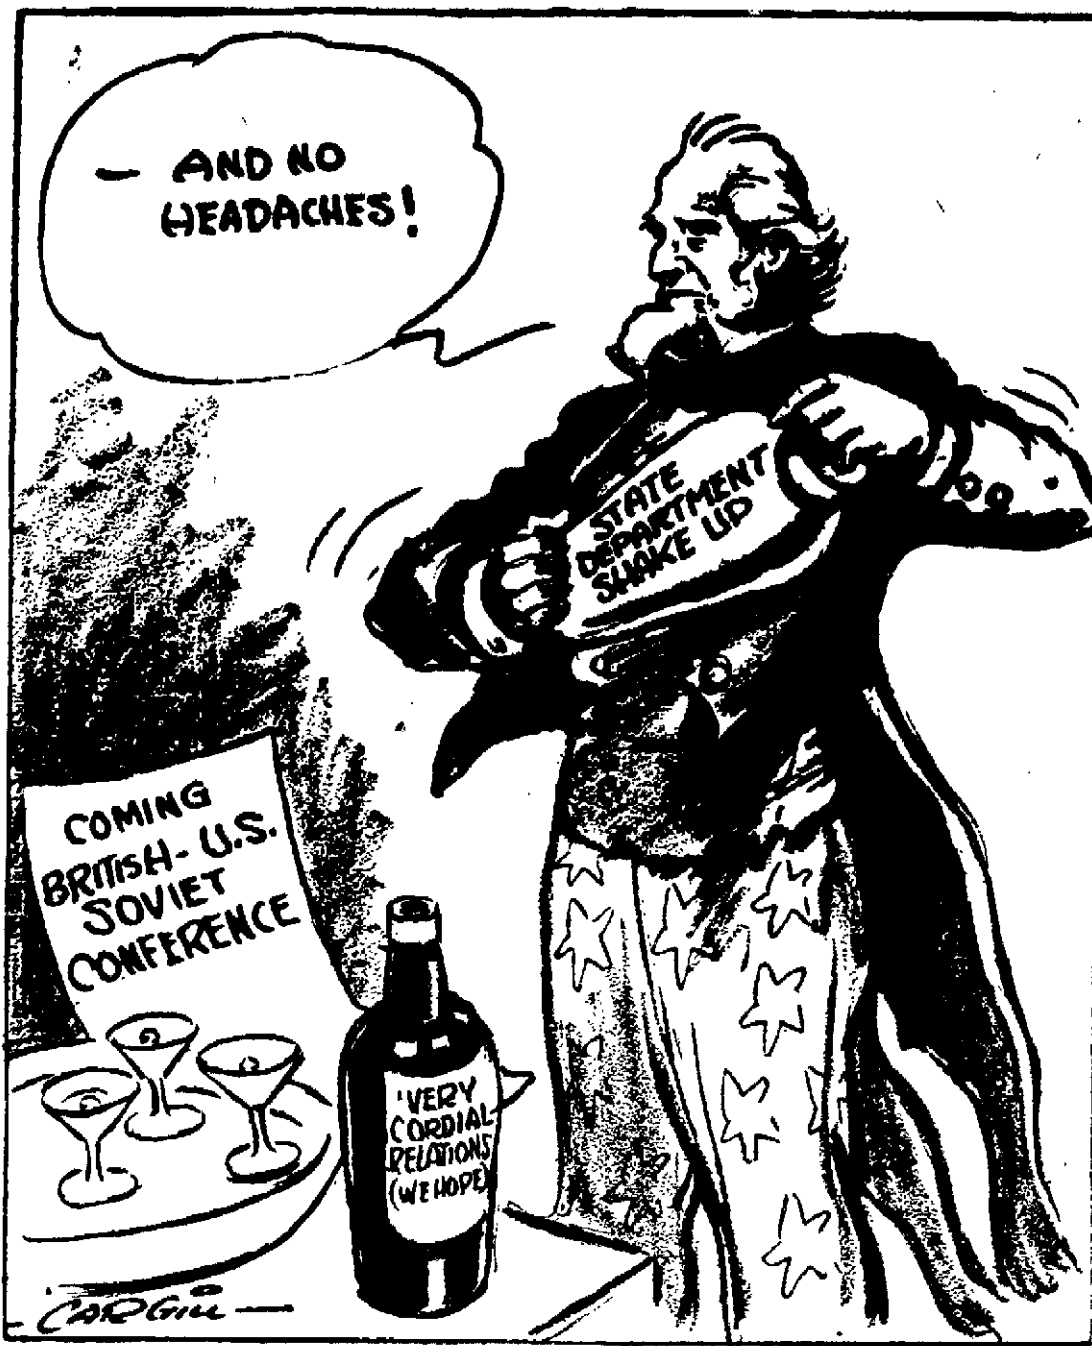

The wealth of these men, together, may amount to a couple of hundred millions. It is a fine thing to have them serving Uncle Sam, and no less fine to see the heads of a proletarian government on such good terms with them.

Younger Voting Age

THE MOVEMENT to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 is spreading. In Ohio the League of Young Democrats has just taken a stand in its favor. As Ohio is a state possessing the constitutional initiative, whereby a given number of voters can, without having recourse to the legislature, put a constitutional amendment on the ballot, the measure has a double chance of speedy presentation to the voters.

This proposed enfranchisement of the young was started a few weeks ago by Georgia, whose voters put such a provision in their constitution. Its fundamental argument is "If they are old enough to fight, they are old enough to vote." It may be a good issue for ambitious politicians to tie to.

DIPLOMATIC COCKTAIL PARTY

Fall of Foggia, Key Italian Air Base, Spells New Grief for Axis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

CAPTURE of Foggia in southern Italy—great communications center and focal point of a baker's dozen up-to-date airdromes—represents one of the major triumphs of the Mediterranean war, for it's the key to vast new fields of Allied endeavor.

Possession of Foggia will permit us to unleash a fresh tornado of bombing and fighting planes. First off, it should greatly expedite the conquest of the Italian peninsula, for it will go far towards breaking the back of German resistance there. An early development should be Nazi evacuation of the hotly contested Naples region.

But our gun-sights can be raised to much more distant horizons. From Foggia we can reach into Germany to vital centers which heretofore have been difficult to bomb. The Balkans lie open to the flying fields of Foggia—a matter of the utmost importance at this moment when the cockpit of southeastern Europe is squirming to escape Hitler's clutch.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

Circus Day

I HAD three reasons for being present at the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey circus. The three boys, aged 12, 8 and 6, hung my hands and my coatralls. It was a fine fall Saturday—we might have stayed at home and dug potatoes. But you know how children are. There was nothing to do but take them.

They were excited. The oldest got so eager that he ran ahead, and hunted 20 minutes before he found me again. Meanwhile, I waited near the spot where he ran ahead, like a worried papa hen with only two chicks. If the idea makes sense to you.

We took in everything from cotton candy to the sideshow with the giants eight feet tall. We sat upon a hard seat for three hours and munched peanuts and looked and laughed and wondered. We drank soft drinks and ate ice cream and later watched the keepers feed the lions.

Two preachers, each with his "reason" beside him, were seated near us. Each told me, confidentially, that he had brought the youngster. We waited an hour before the show began, since reserved seats were too expensive, and we went to the far end of the big tent—500 feet long, 200 wide to seat 12,000 people.

Came the band—a blare of sound! Prancing horses, lumbering wagons with wild animals in them, a long train of elephants, each holding to the tail of the one in front of him, with the tip of his trunk. It was a reproduction of the old time street parade of my own childhood. In those days the parade was worth half the circus.

Gay costumes, brilliant colors, music and motion. . . performances began in all three rings at once. Overhead the trapeze artists swung and tumbled, and dived in long swoops, catching hold of each others hands at just the right instant. The boys were on the edge of their seat, wide-eyed. "It's just like in the movies, only real," one whispered.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

The Russians as part of their great offensive against the Nazis are beginning an operation which, it strikes me, is calculated to be the pay-off for Hitler's siege of Leningrad.

One Red force is headed north-westward along the Smolensk-Vitebsk Dvinsk railway towards the little Baltic state of Latvia, which is only 200 miles away. Other Russian contingents are pushing southwest, in a turning movement against the German line. Now if the Muscovites have the reserve strength to develop this movement, it will cut off the Hitlerites in that whole northern zone which has its apex in Leningrad.

It was long after dark when we got home. The boys' mother had begun to worry. "Which one of them did you lose?" she asked. "How did you know?" I faltered, blankly. "Well—knowing all of you, I thought it would be either the littlest boy or the biggest one." The littlest boy had begun to feel queer. "It wasn't much fun being crowded so, while I was munched and big tears welling up in his blue eyes. "My stomach aches something awful." He was sick half the night. . . all next day about the barn when the chores were done. I heard lions roar and the heavy tramp of elephants across the mow and a swing hung from a girder. The show must go on!

It Says Here:

—By D. R. W.
The senate naval affairs committee certainly has plenty of courage. Its members have voted down a proposal to permit the navy department to send WAVES overseas. And do you know who was backing the plan? A lot of women's organizations and Eleanor Roosevelt.

You remember what happened to Harry Hopkins when he and Mrs. Roosevelt disagreed? He had to move out of the White House. Those senators had better look out, or they'll have to move right out of Washington.

Besides, you can imagine how the WAVES feel. They're supposed to be the sailors yet they've got to stay home while the WAC's get to go abroad. At first glance it looks downright mean of the senators but it's possible they know what the navy department wants and would rather string along with the admirals than with the ladies, including Eleanor.

Efficiency on Lend-Lease Gives Russia Confidence In Stettinius

WASHINGTON—Ed Stettinius, the new undersecretary of state, is known by Washington insiders for three things: (1) How wrong he was regarding aluminum; (2) How right he was regarding rubber; and (3) His close association with the Russians.

The platinum-haired young U. S. Steel executive was the man who took the word of the Aluminum corporation that it could supply ample aluminum and refused to okay more factory facilities at a time when Leon Henderson, Bob Nathan and other planners were warning, wringing their hands, and yelling that we must prepare to produce more aluminum.

Learning his lesson from aluminum, Stettinius later got out in front and on rubber he was the man who constantly needed Jesse Jones for nearly two years, urging that we begin building synthetic rubber plants—all to no avail. Jesse would not listen.

Stettinius' experience with the Russians was what influenced his appointment as undersecretary of state. It began when lend-lease was a pitiful dribble trickling through to the Red army. The Russians, promised mountains, but given molehills, were distressed. They could not understand the red tape, the delays.

Once Gen. Golikov, first head of the Russian lend-lease mission in Washington, went to the White House and, speaking through an interpreter, said that if Stalin had ordered a thing done and then found it didn't get done for three weeks, the men responsible for the delay would be kicked out. Later, Gen. Golikov, disgusted, went back to Russia, is winning victories as commander of the Bryansk front.

Russians Puzzled.

What the Russians couldn't understand was that the United States, the most industrialized nation in the world, the wealthiest, and one of the biggest, had only a few tanks, only a few guns, very little ammunition.

They did not realize that the U. S. A., a firm believer in peace, actually maintained, until a short time before Pearl Harbor, one of the smallest armies in the world. So, for a while the Russians actually thought we were holding out on them.

Gradually, however, Ed Stettinius dispelled this idea. He really went to bat. The Russians have seen him hold up a convoy while he picked up the long distance phone and persuaded factories to rush certain Russian goods. Stettinius would never accept "No."

Stettinius brought order and efficiency to lend-lease. Simultaneously the Russians brought their best experts to the U. S. A. And their mission probably functions more efficiently even than the British. They know what they want, ask for it, and aren't satisfied until they get it. They never discuss politics, regard their political system as different from ours, and don't want them mixed. They stick entirely to technical discussions.

So they believe in Stettinius, and his actions as undersecretary of state should have Russian confidence. Note: Although Stettinius has turned out to be a courageous, hard-working, successful government administrator, his success as a U. S. Steel executive was largely mythical. He inherited this job because of his father's prominence, and U. S. Steel was rather glad to see him patriotically promoted upstairs to work for his country.

Army's Favorite Foods.

Since the Truman committee's investigation of food waste in the army, the Quartermaster corps has been as frugal as a Dutch housewife. Elaborate studies have been made of what the soldiers eat and what they leave on the plate, with the idea of cutting down the percentage of garbage.

It's hard on the pig farmers.

Dave Boone Says:

TO THE average housewife Foggia, Naples, Kiev and even Dnepropetrovsk have taken a back seat in the war news. But for the ration points to 16 per pound. That almost takes it right out of the American kitchen and puts it in the safety deposit vault.

Sixteen points per week has been her total allotment for meat, butter and cheese up to now. So she's got to do some tall figuring.

"OPA took pig's feet, kidneys, brains, ears, tails and snouts off the meat ration list but that didn't soften the blow. You can't spread pig's feet on bread. And it ain't easy to do it with their snouts or ears either."

It's only a coincidence that Prentiss Brown, OPA chief, announces that he is planning to retire any day now. I guess, and I can't resist saying, that maybe he took the job for "butter" or worse.

Words of the Wise

Order is the sanity of the mind, the health of the body, the peace of the city, the security of the state. —Seneca.

The fact that God has prohibited despair gives misfortune the right to hope all things and leaves hope free to dare all things. —Mad. Swetchine.

enteen million tires, both new and used, will be available in 1943. But OPA estimates that twenty-five million tires will be needed this year—not seventeen million. Thus, a shortage of eight million is indicated by the end of this year.

One index of the shortage is the fact that there are between 350,000 and 400,000 "floating certificates"—that is, certificates which have been granted by rationing boards for tires, new or used, but for which tires have not been found by the holder.

OPA experts describe the situation as "terribly serious" with emphasis on trucks. There are approximately five million trucks in the country, of which one million have been disqualified from obtaining any additional tires, new or used. The other four million may obtain such tires if they are to be had.

Those who know the inside story are much worried by the fact that the country got a bullish impression about rubber and tires from the resignation of Jeffers, which was generally interpreted as meaning that the situation was well in hand and that the emergency was over. The contrary, however, appears to be the fact. More than one insider is saying today that Jeffers got out of the way just before the roof fell in.

Merry-Go-Round.

A high, air-minded War department official says the length of the war depends on the weather this winter. If the weather is favorable for flying, the war in Europe might be over before next summer. . . . Word has come back to Washington from Buenos Aires that a large shipment of U. S. aspirin, sent to an approved Argentine drug firm, was surreptitiously transferred to a German drug firm and retailed by them. The Argentine government does not recognize the U. S. black list. ERNIE PYLE Roving Reporter

Being a Slightly Fantastic Account of a Perilous Sea Voyage From Long Island to New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn.—Sure did have a lot of fun on that voyage over from Long Island. Lot of people killed, and the boat sank twice, and we ran out of food on the 37th day out (Daylight Time), and had to eat the lifeboats.

Just got in here this evening, all ragged and tuckered out. We were 96 days on that voyage. Or was it 96 minutes? Time gets all mixed up at sea, you know. And then there's Daylight time. I guess it was 96 minutes by Daylight time.

Well, to start at the beginning. As soon as we got away from the dock at Orient Point half a dozen of us got together and decided to badger the captain. One guy said: "Oh captain captain, when do we cross the meridian?"

And another one said: "Oh captain, tell us about your most thrilling moment at sea."

And still another one said: "Captain, I'm from the Steamboat Inspection service. Let's see your papers." Just like a girl, isn't it?

And I personally thought up this crack: "Captain dear captain, are you master of your fate?" But we finally didn't use that one, because I couldn't remember whether it was "master of your fate" or "master of your soul."

The captain didn't answer any how, so we got out the long boats and we roved against the wind, man and boy, for three days and a half. When we got to Block Island there wasn't anything there except water.

About that time the mate walked by and I said to him: "Mate, how's your scupper?"

The mate said: "Don't call me mate. Call me Paul."

By this time we were three score and ten minutes out of Long Island, and you couldn't see a bit of land—unless you looked out the window. So I said to the captain, I said: "Captain, why are women and children first?" He answered that one.

"It's just a foolish belief held in some ports," he said. "Sort of a superstition, like some people think that smoking cigarettes before breakfast is bad for your stomach."

We passed Fisher's Island on the starboard bow, and saw a guy lying on the beach, wearing only a loincloth and reading the ten best books. Shipwrecked, I guess.

The boy in overalls came into the salon to take our order for a sandwich. I sure made that boy look silly. I said to him: "Boy, what are those rubber buttons on the back of all these chairs for?"

"That's so when the chairs fall over they won't scuff up the wall," he said.

"But my good man," I replied "the rubber buttons are about halfway down the back of the chair. The top of the chair would hit the wall first, and the rubber buttons would never touch it."

"I never thought of that," the boy said. "I'll go ask the steward." He never came back. We finally decided he didn't care. But half an hour later we saw the steward floating in the water, face down. Maybe the boy did spring.

The captain walked by again. I said: "Captain, I've just been figuring, and I figure that if I had paid the same rate per hour on the freighter last spring

SENIOR HIGH TO HAVE YEAR BOOK AGAIN IN 1944

Staff Prepares For Putting Out Annual; Has Difficulty In Picture Needs.

Publication of the "Manhigan," Mansfield Senior high school year book, will be resumed this year after being dropped last spring because of the shortage of materials needed to publish the annual.

Probably no staff in the high school will feel the impact of the war any more than the "Manhigan" editorial department. The staff still has the problem of getting individual pictures of the graduating classes. Because no photographer will undertake to make individual pictures of the classes, each member has been asked to furnish his or her own photograph for the book.

Because there was no "Manhigan" published last year, the members of last year's graduating classes will have their individual photographs in the book if they furnish their own pictures.

The book will be approximately the same size and as nearly like the books in the past as is possible this year. It will be distributed on Class day, Friday, May 19. There will be the usual sections devoted to the graduating class, underclasses, sports, organizations,

GET JAP SABER THAT CUT HIM

WITH U. S. TROOPS OUTSIDE MUNDA, New Georgia—(AP)—Army Pvt. Millard R. Morrison, Whitewater, Tenn., today carries a Japanese officer's saber that he captured the hard way.

Morrison and Capt. Gordon Hescocock, Wilmington, Vt., were manning a gun position at night during the drive against Munda airport. They heard Japs prowling around the outlying jungle. One of the Nips came through the jungle, charging at the two Americans.

Morrison's gun jammed, and Hescocock was unable to remove the pin from his grenade before the officer lunged into the nest. Hescocock, on his back, kicked the Jap. The enemy swung twice at Morrison, inflicting saber wounds on both legs, then shot Hescocock in the left shoulder at close range.

Hescocock crawled to the next foxhole for assistance while Morrison pounded the Jap with his gun butt. A fellow soldier, Bill Mears from Alabama, came over and stabbed the Jap officer to death.

Morrison, by common consent, received the sword as compensation for his saber wounds.

REFUSES WIFE

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Chief Carpenters Mate Robert G. Noyes, a Navy See Bee who returned from active duty in Africa, said the United States dollar has a high value there, but added that he did not take advantage of some of the bargains that were offered.

"A tribe leader wanted to sell me a daughter for eight dollars," Noyes said. "When I refused, he offered me his son's wife, and finally his own wife."

"I wasn't in the market," he said.

Today Is U.S. Sacrifice Day

Back the Attack with Bonds

Buy bonds today until you have really sacrificed and you know it

In Los Angeles—after he had given his blood
They found out he was a Marine furloughed back from war.
“I thought I was dead—but plasma saved me,” he said,
“And I came in to pay back the blood I received.”

*And what have you and I been through for the war?
Worked a little harder? Given hours and effort?
The pleats off our pants? Extra butter? Some driving?
Tin cans, some sugar and junk—loaned some money?*

The slender artist—she lost her fiance the day his wings
In the RCAF were to be pinned on his breast.
And then en route from camp to that funeral
Her younger brother crashed and died—only man in the family.

*And what have YOU suffered or sacrificed?
Prompt laundry service, a juicy steak, can openers,
A few lost leisure hours in some war work,
Some frills on food and maybe some drinks!*

His dad was a big shot and he could have stayed home
Holding down an office job—some sinecure—
But he fought, for he wanted to play his full part.
He's home now—having left both his legs in a foreign desert.

*You aren't asked to lose your legs,
Or be mortally wounded and then give blood.
You aren't asked to puff out your life in a crash—
You're asked to sacrifice some things around you
So you can lend more money . . . not GIVE it . . . LEND it!*

★ Buy a bond today no matter what it costs you in sacrifice and difficulty. Indeed, buy one BECAUSE it costs you sacrifice and difficulty. Let your spirit be lifted up, knowing you are straining and getting hurt—a little—to do your part. If the war were twenty miles away you'd sacrifice!
Listen—it's closer to you than that. It's wherever the things you own and love and want are.
It surges on the shores of every liberty and freedom and good thing in the world. Sacrifice, won't you, to smother it down? Buy a bond again. Today!

It's EASY to Buy BONDS

Just walk in and say “I want a War Bond!” Pay your money and you'll soon walk out proudly with proof that you're not letting others fight your war. The least we here at home can do is lend money. You lend $18.75 and get $25 back ten years from now. Or $37.50 and get $50 back, or $75 and get $100. Best of all, stretch and lend $750 for a $1000 bond. In case you need the money you don't have to wait ten years. You can get your money with earned interest earlier if necessary.

Can You Look Ahead?

If you could look ahead, you'd consider buying bonds
now—more bonds—anything but a sacrifice. Ten years from now we should be surrounded with a new world—with wonders to make life more interesting and pleas-anter beyond our dreams. Keep buying bonds—so you'll have bonds to cash in month after month ten years ahead.
Sacrifice? What sacrifice is there in saving at interest while others die? Buy another bond today for tomorrow!

'Super-Zero' Plane Developed By Japs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Japanese have come up with a new fighter plane more formidable than the Zero, Senator Brewster (R-Me.) disclosed today.

Brewster, one of three senators just back from a 42,000-mile swing over the world's battlefronts in an army plane, told an interviewer that the new "super-Zero" apparently was just getting into production because only a few had been sighted.

But those few, he indicated, had proved tough. He said the ratio of American victories over losses, which ran as high as 4 to 1, has begun to drop.

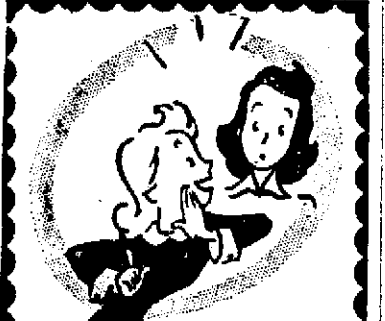

Until the appearance of the new Japanese model, Brewster said, U. S. fighters in the Far Pacific considered quantity more important than quality. Now, however, they are urging stepped-up speed, climb and maneuverability in their own ships.

Brewster said it was conceded everywhere that American bombers are the world's best.

RAF Hammers at Burma Japs Again

NEW DELHI — (AP) — RAF planes continued to hammer Japanese bases and communications in Burma yesterday, bombing and strafing army bus near Butthid-aung, troop positions near Maung-daw, a bridge and railway rolling stock on the Mu river and a small town on the Chindwin, a communique reported today. No RAF planes were lost.

BOY FOUND IN ICE BOX, DEAD

Had Been Missing Since Sunday;
Death Called Accident.

WARREN — (INS) — Pending further investigation, the death of Lewis Davis, 7, whose body was found in an ice-box in the attic of his home, today was listed as accidental.

The boy, missing since Sunday noon, had been sought by city and county police, Boy Scouts and civilian defense groups.

A shoe found by the boy's body led police to believe that Lewis had removed it to hit the ice-box in the hope that someone would hear him and open the door he apparently had shut after crawling into the lower compartment.

Takes Over as City's New Girl Scout Executive

Miss Mary Wolverton of Newark, today took office as executive secretary of the Mansfield Girl Scouts, succeeding Miss Eleanor Bond, who resigned to enlist in the WAVES.

A graduate of Ohio State university, Miss Wolverton later attended Western Reserve university and received office training at Columbus. She has been teaching physical education to the younger girls at Roosevelt Junior high school in Newark before accepting the post here.

Miss Wolverton became interested in the Girl Scout work when she herself joined the organization while still in school. Although the Mansfield position is her first executive post with the Girl Scouts, Miss Wolverton is well acquainted with the work having served as a Girl Scout leader, camp counselor and received training in the Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Girl Scout programs.

PRE-NUPTIAL PARTIES START FOR MISS LOCKE

Miss Kathryn Landfair, 19 Bahl Avenue, Entertains In Honor of Bride-Elect of Pvt. James LeMunyon, Jr., Wednesday.

THE FIRST in a series of pre-nuptial parties for Miss Jo Ann Locke, bride-elect of Pvt. James LeMunyon, jr., was a lovely personal shower given at the home of Miss Kathryn Landfair, 19 Bahl avenue. Guests were close friends of the bride-to-be.

A bride's book was made, as the diversion of the evening.

Prizes were won by Miss Lillian Art, Miss Martha Finney, Mrs. Richard James and Miss Margaret Zimmerman.

The honoree was presented with her gifts on a huge wooden tray by the hostess. The hostess presented her with a personal gift. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table centered with an attractive arrangement of gladioli and water lily candles in a pond, at either side of which were lighted tall pink tapers in crystal holders. A two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom completed the table decoration. Appointments were in pink. Miss Joan Stoeck poured.

Miss Locke, the daughter of Mayor and Mrs. W. J. Locke, will become the bride of Pvt. LeMunyon, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James LeMunyon, sometime during the latter part of October or the early part of November, depending upon the furlough of the prospective bridegroom.

Bouquets of flowers were placed throughout the home. The brownies adjourned to their troop room while the others held an informal meeting. Mrs. J. Herbert explained the duties of the troop committee, which was organized at the meeting. It includes Mrs. Dale Ralph, Mrs. Robert Craft and Mrs. Martin Bright.

Mrs. William Joiner will become a new assistant leader to the group, in addition to Mrs. Clifford Heaton, who is now an assistant leader.

Members of the Delano auxiliary No. 6 met at the Delano hall on Bowman street last evening for a meeting in charge of Mrs. William Bell when the committee purchased a $50 war bond. Plans were made to pack boxes for the boys overseas at the Oct. 12 meeting. A Halloween party will be held Oct. 26 in charge of Mrs. Nick Blocker and her committee. Secret sisters were named for the coming year. The next meeting will be held Oct. 12. A poke lunch will be served.

Friday afternoon at the Women's Club at 2:30, members of that club will hear Mrs. William Layton present a review of the book, "God Is My Co-Pilot," by Col. Robert Lee Scott. A brief business meeting will precede the review.

Parent Must Be Patient to Cure Mirror Writing

By GARREY C. MYERS, Ph. D. Now and then a child will have trouble at school because he writes backwards or as if he were writing as he looked into a mirror; or in some other unconventional way. This child is handicapped seriously not only in writing and drawing but also in spelling and reading.

Any parent who is patient and able to win the child's co-operation can help him correct his difficulty. There is no magic in the cure. Many letters come to me describing types of this problem, some giving samples of the child's writing printing or drawing. Here is one example. "Our youngest daughter who is 4½ years old has recently started to use a pencil or crayon to print letters and numbers. In watching her work I was alarmed to find that although she uses her right hand, she writes and forms her letters from right to left. Sometimes she will start at the bottom of a page and work up. When trying to copy what we have written she gets the letters in the correct order but when writing from memory will spell her name YCNAI or writes the figures 4321. In writing 12 she will make the 2 first. The first time we tried to correct her she became so emotionally upset that we have not mentioned it since. I am enclosing some of her work. "The question is—will she outgrow this or should something be done about it now? We feel it would be a handicap for her to start to school forming her words and letters backwards. She has not been forced in any way but has a natural desire to learn. When I asked her why she started at the right side she replied that she couldn't use her left hand and she'd have to in order to start on the other side. Are we unduly worried or do we need some parent education to handle this? A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed."

It is nothing to get upset about. The trouble can be corrected by you and the father if you can compose yourself properly. You need to be so skillful as not to stir up resistance in your child but to win her co-operation. Your aim is to supervise her always when she prints or draws so that she practices only in the right direction. Succeeding at this you may be able to help her establish the correct direction habits after a few weeks or months. Please show no vexation if she should ever draw or write in her old way. Try to make it a game rather than a chore. When you read to her run your finger under the words or phrases so that she will see that you read from left to

War Relief Committee Has Chapter Night Program

THE war relief committee of the Women of the Moose of Mansfield chapter No. 47, of which Mrs. William Smith is chairman, was in charge of the program Wednesday evening when the chapter held an open meeting at the Moose home. Mrs. A. K. Ricks, senior regent, presided. Ninety-three members attended.

The program was opened with two solos by Miss Mary Jones. The first was entitled "God Bless America." "Only a Rose" was her second selection. Guest speakers were Mrs. Eugene Weinberger and Miss Della Cochran of the office of civilian defense. Mrs. Weinberger spoke on "Salvage," telling of the great need for tin, paper and waste fat. Miss Cochran's topic was "The Power of Women in the World Today."

"The Service Flag in the Window," written by the mother of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Claffey of Washington, Pa., was read by Miss Ruth Roesch, after which Miss Jones sang "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There." A class of 24 candidates was initiated in honor of Miss Roesch. Miss Roesch told the organization of the war relief committee in 1939. Its purpose at that time was to aid the peoples overrun by the Nazis and to assist the right. Rebus materials are excellent—pages with pictures mixed among words that take the place of words or phrases to read from such, the left to right habit is necessary. So is it in reading from the comic strip. One of the children's magazines regularly runs a rebus page which is used by some reading laboratories for cases like that of your child. If you have a typewriter, induce this child to print a few words on it as you spell them slowly for her. The typewriter moves only in the correct direction.

Fairfax Letters for Service Men

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm writing in answer to your letter in the column about soldiers who are heartbroken upon getting news that their girl friends marry someone else while the soldiers are fighting for their country.

My husband and I were married before Pearl Harbor and had our baby also before P. H. but they took my husband in the army. We were together as much as possible until a few months ago, when out of a clear sky he wrote that we were through. I know the boys overseas couldn't be hurt any more than I was, and they don't have to worry about making a living for the baby. I'm a beautician, but that doesn't help the hurt, or blot out the memory of a great many things.

No soldier looked forward with greater pleasure, than I did, to letters from a loved one. I want the soldiers to know that there are also girls and wives at home with broken hearts, all on account of the girls who follow an army camp and whom the men can't resist.

There's a good deal more than just saying "We're through" to dropping the responsibilities of marriage, whether a man is a soldier or civilian, and it would be kinder on your part, considering he's gone a bit haywire over troop-chasers, not to give him a divorce. Besides, if you've been faithful to him, he can't get a divorce. I hope you're getting your family allowance, to which you are entitled as the wife of

MARJORIE MITCHELL HONORED WITH PARTY

Bride-Elect of James Stough Entertained at Betty Blackstone Home; Miss Marion Given Associate Hostess at Shower.

MISS MARJORIE MITCHELL was a guest at another in the series of pre-nuptial parties being given in her honor, at the home of Miss Dorothy Blackstone, 233 Bartley avenue. Miss Marion Given was the associate hostess at the linen shower. Miss Mitchell is the bride-elect of James Stough.

The evening was spent making a bride's book. At a late hour the honoree received a telegram telling where her many gifts were hidden. The gift of the hostesses was a chenille bedspread.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated in a pink and blue color scheme. A miniature umbrella centered the table with an improvised flower garden and a bride and groom underneath. Tall pink and blue tapers furnished illumination. Miss Eunice Stough, sister of the prospective bridegroom, poured.

Miss Mitchell plans to leave a soldier, and also the $12 for your baby. Snapshot Does Not Constitute Infidelity. DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm a man, 33 years old, and my wife is 28. We've been married seven years. My wife took the first vacation she had ever spent away from me, and she and her mother (who isn't very well) stayed at a hotel in the mountains.

My wife promised me they would just take it easy and rest, but instead, she was on the go most of the time, and without her mother. She met a man, about 42 years old, at one of the places she visited and had a snapshot taken with this man. When she returned, she showed me all the pictures which they had taken and forgot to take out the one of herself and this man. I was much surprised that my wife would do this, and now we are constantly arguing over this matter.

She sees nothing wrong in having the picture taken, but I believe it's terribly wrong. We would like your opinion, please. M. G. Aren't you altogether too rigid in your point of view? If all the married people who've had snapshots taken with other people's husbands and wives were considered unfaithful, the law courts would be jammed like troop trains.

No, I don't see any harm in the snapshot, and I hope you'll stop arguing about it, and never have anything worse to worry over. Doesn't Love Her Fiance. DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a girl of 20 years, engaged to a boy in the military police corps. We haven't seen each other since January. In the meantime I have fallen in love with another man, one year and three months younger than myself who is entering the marine corps. We love each other very deeply and E. wants us to marry before he leaves.

Shall I go against my family's wishes and marry E. so we can have a little happiness before he goes, or shall I wait for John whom I don't love and know now that I never can? U. C. Whether you marry the marine or not, square thing is to tell John you no longer care about him, and break your engagement. A boy little more than 18 years of age strikes me as pretty young to assume the responsibilities of marriage.

THEATERS

Producer-Director.

If Producer Edwin L. Marin, whose latest picture is Universal's "Two Tickets to London," now playing at the Madison theater, did not like the way his director handled things, then he had no one but himself to blame. Marin also was the director and the fact is that he not only produced but directed the thrilling romantic melodrama which stars Michele Morgan. Also on the twin bill is "Souls at Sea," with Gary Cooper and George Raft taking the leading roles.

Folk Song Singer.

Pvt. Paul Ives, seen in Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," which closes at the Ohio theater Friday after a week's run, is a well-known radio singer of folk songs. He once tramped through every state in the Union collecting his tunes. Before production on the picture was even finished at the Warner Bros. studio, he and his banjo were assigned by the war department to tour the remote army posts in Alaska and entertain for lonely troops.

Opening at Ritz.

George Houston takes the leading role in "Wallaby Jim of the Islands," which opened today at the Ritz theater. The second feature is "Manpower," starring George Raft and Edward G. Robinson.

First Showing.

"Heading for God's Country" is making its first appearance in Mansfield at the Park theater starting today. William Lundigan and Virginia Dale play the leading roles. The co-feature is "Riders of the Rio Grande," an action packed western hit. Playing the roles of the three messengers are Bob Steele, Tom Tyler and Jimmie Dodd.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, October 1

A MOST reassuring day for concentrating the forces, in an effort to place the position and fortunes on a firm and enduring foundation for a future of security and continued peace and prosperity. Under this rule perseverance, application and hard work are stimulated to crystallized efforts in this direction, and due returns are in sight in accumulated possessions or tangible assets of stability and worth. Seek co-operation and friendly support from elders and employers, but refrain from discord or impetuous or ill considered moves. Social, domestic and affectional matters should enjoy corresponding security and peace.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of steady progress in the direction of security, increased possessions and enduring success through good judgment, persistent effort, and the friendly co-operation of elders or other solid friends, whose interest may be social, financial or possibly sentimental. It should be a time for concentrating all endeavors toward lasting and stable foundations, with due rewards for work well done but refrain from impetuosity, forced issues or intemperate application.

A child born on this day although being impulsive and high strung, is also stable, industrious and responsible, with an eye and determination to fortify its future fortunes.

If you need to BUILD UP RED BLOOD!

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"This time we will not go out by the basement passage," my father said in hushed voice as we waited for the elevator.

"One of my special taxicab men is waiting at the door downstairs, and another is drawn up at the Forty-second street entrance of the Belgrade hotel. Our first driver will take us to the Forty-first street entrance, and immediately drive away. We will go through the lobby at as brisk a walk as we can manage without exciting suspicion, and then on through to the Forty-second street entrance where our second driver will whisk us to Meredith's office without delay. I am reasonably sure we shall elude the trailers whom Milner no doubt will put upon our taxi as we drive out. Both my men are skillful 'double' around corners, and the trailer may never catch up even with the first cab, let alone the second."

A True Prophet.

He proved a true prophet. We did not catch sight of anyone trailing us, and arrived at the entrance to the building in which Dr. Hal Meredith had his offices with the assurance that our destination had not been detected. Hal Meredith himself opened the door to us, and greeted us cordially as soon as we had hurried inside and he had closed the office door.

"By your orders, I have sent my office girls and nurse away for the next two hours," he said. "I have postponed all my appointments, and am answering my door myself. There may be chance callers, but the probability is slight, for I see patients only by appointment."

"That is all to the good," my father answered. "Have my men come?"

"Yes, they are waiting your orders in the rear. There are four of them, all husky chaps."

I wondered if I imagined the note of surprise in his voice, but from the way my father answered I decided that it had been there. "I am afraid, my dear Hal, that you will need them before the interview is ended. I am very sure that Ruth Hayes will not come to this rendezvous alone."

"Why? Who will be with her?" Hal asked.

"If I am not mistaken," my father replied slowly, "she will be accompanied by the two plug-uglies who came with her last night to my daughter's apartment in search of a catarsine. My son-in-law thoroughly deflated her by his ridicule, and my men stationed on the balcony were a sufficient deterrent to hers, after my son-in-law had refused to admit them to the apartment, so they never got into action."

"I am sure," he continued, "she does not suspect that we know of her projected visit to you today. You were very wise to pretend submission to her demands, and she, no doubt, is counting upon your fear of her threat to keep you silent."

Laying the Trap.

"As we discussed before," he went on, "I wish you to lead her on, ask for details, let her make her full monstrous demand, so that my stenographer can record the conversation to the last comma."

"So that she shall suspect nothing," he finished, "do not object at all to the presence of her gangster escorts. But if possible, I wish you to seat them so that their backs will be to the entrance behind which we shall be stationed, with our guards."

Hal Meredith had been listening with an almost bewildered expression on his face, but at the hint of action, he drew a tall figure erect, and his face glowed with alive with alert attention.

"Then chairs should be arranged that way now," he pointed out. "If there were any change in their position after the woman and her escort get here it might arouse their suspicions."

"Of course," by father said. "Let me help you."

"And I also," I said and in another minute the chairs were arranged to the satisfaction of my father, when he had noted the position of the door through which his men would have to come if they should be needed.

"And now, Hal," he said, "I'll be grateful if you'll take us back and show us where my men are and where you've planned that we shall be stationed while this interview takes place."

"Just follow me," Hal replied, and led us down a little passage into a room where evidently adjoined the one we had left. In it we found Adams and the three guards.

My father frowned his instant disapproval.

"Do you mean this is where they are to stay?" he asked. "They

"The Authority on Authorities"

PREFER A MAJOR LEAD

You know that most players would rather bid a major suit than a minor one. That is why a defensive player on lead should prefer to lead a major suit against a No Trump contract. The declarer, or his partner, may have had an unbid minor suit, which was kept concealed, and so your lead of a minor may be right into the hostile strength. There is hardly a chance, however, that the declarer or his partner holds a biddable major suit which was not shown. So by leading a major you are pretty certain not to be leading into a hostile long suit but one in which your partner has something.

Maybe it would have been better bidding if North had started with 1-Club, but if so, South very likely would have used 1-Diamond as his first response. In that event, his side never would have scored the game it got away with. If the side wound up in 3-No Trumps then, West never would have led a diamond, but never could get to that other room in time, if her guards turned rough."

would have chosen the killer, a heart.

West should have led a heart anyway, on that bidding. Two suits were unshown, the red ones. He should have reasoned that hearts would have been bid if either North or South held a biddable combination, whereas there was a good chance South might have the diamonds in shape. He selected the diamond 5 because that suit had higher intermediate cards beneath the K, a very bad reason.

After winning that lead with dummy's Q, South led to the spade Q and then sent the club 9 through. East let that win, then took the 10 with his A and returned a heart. Nine tricks were now assured, however, for the declarer.

If West had opened the heart 2, the A of that suit would have been knocked out before the clubs got established, so that four heart tricks and the club A would have set the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem.

This year—more than twice as many people are demanding Boscul Coffee!

MOM: Thought you'd notice
the difference, Jane—we've switched brands. And you can thank rationing for the change!
I had to go looking for a richer
coffee to make our coupons stretch. That's how I found Boscul and discovered just how good coffee can be!

JANE: Ummm, it's swell! One whiff of that aroma and you know it's bound to be! How come it's so much richer?

MOM: Expensive mountain coffees, the grocer says. Boscul puts more in every pound to add extra flavor.

JANE: Well, it's one change I go for . . . this Boscul is just right. Gee, I'm glad I'm home!

Because so many people are demanding Boscul, your grocer may sometimes run short. But keep asking—that extra mellow flavor is worth waiting for!
